Canada, Angered, Considers Ford Boycott

Demands Made For Seizure of Dominion Plant

Parliament Hears Stormy Debate Arising From Ford's Refusal to Produce Plane Engines for Anglo Air Force

Ottawa, June 27 (P)—Henry Ford's refusal to manufacture airplane motors for Great Britain has aroused demands in parliament for a Canadian government ban on sale of Ford vehicles and seizure of the Canadian plant.

But after a stormy debate in the House of Commons and Senate yesterday, conservative leader, R. B. Hanson, said in Commons:

"Public opinion in Canada and, I believe, in the United States at this time will deal with Mr. Henry Ford. I think we can leave it there."

(In Detroit, Ford said, his decision against building plane engines for any purpose other than defense of the United States did not affect policies of Ford companies in the British empire.)

"The Ford Motor Company of Canada, Ltd., at Windsor, Ont., and other Ford plants located in the British empire are using their facilities to the utmost for the production of military equipment for the defense of the British empire," Ford said. "They are serving their people as they should do."

M. J. Coldwell, left-wing Saskatchewan member of Commons, declared in the house that "there is an opportunity" for the official custodian of enemy property to take over the Ford subsidiary in Canada. He referred to Ford as "this highly-placed saboteur."

Senator F. B. Black, New Brunswick conservative, suggested in the Senate that the government cancel all orders for Ford equipment and forbid sale of Ford cars in Canada.

Minister Speaks
Munitions Minister C. D. Howe, who has been in charge of purchasing army motor equipment, much of it from the Ford Motor Company of Canada, declared:

"We believe that Mr. Henry Ford has taken an attitude that is distinctly unfriendly to the British empire and every part of it. I think we can say that he has been dealing with the United States government as perhaps the circumstances warranted."

"The United States government had cancelled its own negotiations for an order with Ford for plane motors."

Howe, added, however, the Ford Canadian company was "beyond criticism" in that it had cooperated completely with the government in filling war orders.

Tribute to Campbell
He paid tribute to W. R. Campbell, president of the Canadian firm, who until recently was chairman of the war supply board, now taken over by the munitions department.

Coldwell, acting leader of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, asserted four unemployed Detroit paraders were killed and many injured some years ago when they were met with "strong-arm methods" at the outskirts of Dearborn, Mich., where the main Ford plants are located.

The House applauded when Coldwell said:

"It's no wonder Hitler decorated Mr. Ford."

(In London, British newspapers carried Ford advertisements which said: "The vast resources, human and mechanical, of the Great Dagenham (English Ford factory) are taken over by the national work to the utmost.")

The Toronto Retail Fuel Dealers' Association, which has about 200 members, resolved last night not to handle Ford coke or purchase other Ford products because, it said, his attitude is "anti-British."

Letter From Hitler
Budapest, June 27 (P)—Premier Count Pal Teleki has received a letter from Adolf Hitler saying Hungary's territorial claims "will be met," it was reported reliably today, as both Hungary and Bulgaria studied reports of Rumanian capitulation to Russian territorial demands. Both Hungary and Bulgaria have claims against Rumania.

Widows of Presidents at G. O. P. Convention

Text of Republican Platform

(By The Associated Press)

Philadelphia, June 26—Following is the text of the Republican platform adopted by the national convention Wednesday night:

The Republican party, in representative convention assembled, submits to the people of the United States the following declaration of its principles and purposes:

We state our general objectives in the simple and comprehensive words of the preamble to the Constitution of the United States. Those objectives as there stated are these:

"To form a more perfect union; establish justice; insure domestic tranquility; provide for the common defense; promote the general welfare and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity."

Meeting within the shadows of Independence Hall, where those words were written, we solemnly reaffirm them as a perfect statement of the needs for which we, as a party propose, to plan and to labor.

I
The record of the Roosevelt administration is a record of failure to attain any one of those essential objectives.

Instead of leading us into more perfect union the Administration has deliberately fanned the flames of class hatred.

Instead of the establishment of justice the Administration has sought the subjection of the judiciary to executive discipline and domination.

Instead of insuring domestic tranquility the Administration has made impossible the normal friendly relation between employers and employees and has even succeeded in alienating both the great divisions of organized labor.

Instead of providing for the common defense the Administration, notwithstanding the expenditure of billions of our dollars, has left the nation unprepared to resist foreign attack.

Instead of promoting the general welfare the Administration has domesticated the deficit, doubled the debt, imposed taxes where they do the greatest economic harm, and used public money for partisan political advantage.

Instead of the blessings of liberty the Administration has imposed upon us a regime of regimentation which has deprived the individual of his freedom and has made of America a shackled giant.

II
Wholly ignoring these great objectives as solemnly declared by the people of the United States, the New Deal Administration has for seven long years whirled in a turmoil of shifting, contradictory and overlapping administrations and policies. Confusion has reigned supreme. The only steady, undeviating characteristic has been relentless expansion of the power of the Federal government over the everyday life of the farmer, the industrial worker and the business man.

The emergency demands organization—not confusion. It demands free and intelligent co-operation—not incompetent domination. It demands a change.

The New Deal Administration has failed America. It has failed by seducing our people to become continuously dependent upon government, thus weakening their morale and quenching the traditional American spirit.

It has failed by viciously attacking our industrial system and sapping its strength and vigor.

It has failed by attempting to send our Congress home during the world's most tragic hour, so that we might be eased into the war by

Hoover Will Measure His Strength

Delegates Are Eager to Begin Ballot Test of Leading Candidates for Nomination

Convention Hall, Philadelphia, June 27 (P)—Word that Herbert Hoover wanted to measure his own strength before making any commitments on the Republican Presidential nomination circulated today among national convention delegates eager to start balloting on a 1940 party leader.

Only that balloting can determine the strength of the former President, whose name was not formally placed before the convention, and disclose how far Wendell Willkie has pierced the delegate defenses of Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan and Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

Hoover himself, busy with fresh conferences at his hotel, did not amplify his previous statement that he was not "seeking" public office again. But some party leaders brought from his impression that he not only wanted to stop Willkie but also would accept the nomination himself if the opportunity arose.

The names of 10 candidates had been put into the convention nominating pot.

The first few ballots were expected to tell whether other candidates with the apparent support of Hoover had been able to nail down their delegations tightly

Eight Graduates at High School Not Legible in List

In the list of students receiving diplomas at the Kingston High School commencement exercises on Tuesday evening and published in Wednesday's issue of The Freeman, eight names were indistinct in the first papers that came off the press. These names which were at the bottom of the columns, were: Alice Dunbar, Douglas B. Durling, B. Alice Larsen, Margery O. Larsen, Leola Saddlemeier, Gertrude Sampietro, Jean M. Wisneski and Theodore C. Wood, Jr.

Their plan, which the war office is believed to oppose strongly, calls for the issue of rifles, shotguns and revolvers—any firearm that works—to the civilian population.

British Announce Efforts Fruitful

Million Men Will Be Put at Vital Points in Island Kingdom

London, June 27 (P)—Great Britain's effort to man battlements of her island fortress with 1,000,000 trained troops to fight off invasion is progressing "satisfactorily," neutral military observers say.

This conclusion is voiced at a time when sections of the press and the public are clamoring that the government arm every citizen.

War Department Is Forced to Ask Congress to Call Halt in Plans to Give U. S. Army of Million Men

Washington, June 27 (P)—The prospect of a congressional drive for a regular army of 750,000 or 1,000,000 men placed the War Department today in the unusual position of counseling a temporary halt in further expansion of the fighting forces.

Authoritative sources forecast there would be army opposition to any plan that would increase the number of troops beyond a maximum of 500,000. Even this would raise difficulties which some officers prefer to postpone.

The 400,000-man army, recently approved by the House, embodies the general staff's ideas of the size of land and air corps forces which can be fully organized, trained and equipped in the next few months without jeopardizing readiness to cope with an emergency.

Despite the army's view, proposals for further immediate increases toward a million men have been advanced in both the Senate and House and are expected to be passed when Congress reconvenes next week after the current recess.

Russia Demands Black Sea Rail Area; Axis Yields

German, Italian Consent Is Reported as 'Deal' for Russian Action in Keeping Turkey From Giving Any Assistance to Allies

Bucharest, June 27 (P)—Rumania decided today, according to diplomatic quarters, to yield vast territorial concessions to Soviet Russia but pleaded for time to dicker on the Red demands and ordered a precautionary mobilization.

War Apparently Averted (By The Associated Press)

War in the Balkans was apparently averted today when King Carol II of Rumania was reported to have yielded to a stiff Russian ultimatum demanding the cession of Rumania's eastern province of Bessarabia and part of another province, Bucovina.

The Soviet ultimatum, timed for expiration at 10 p. m. today (3 p. m. E. S. T.) also demanded rail bases at Rumania's Black Sea harbor of Constanta and at certain Danube points, diplomatic quarters in Bucharest said.

Authoritative reports said Germany and Italy consented to the Soviet demand on Rumania in a "deal" to pay for Russia's pressure to keep Turkey from joining the Allies and for Soviet economic aid to the Axis powers.

Russian planes bombed villages in Rumania's eastern province of Bessarabia, dispatches said, and one Soviet plane was shot down.

The Russian demands were said to be based on the plane-shooting incident, but unconfirmed reports earlier this week said infantry skirmishes between Rumanian and Russian troops had occurred in the province. Bessarabia belonged to Russia before the World War.

In the main European struggle, British bombers inflicted "very heavy attacks" on Germany's rich industrial region of the Ruhr, London reported.

Eden Drops Hint
War Minister Anthony Eden dropped a broad hint that Britain—instead of waiting passively for Hitler's long-heralded invasion—might herself launch a bold offensive against Germany.

With units of the French fleet now reported ready to carry on the fight under British command, Eden declared bluntly:

"No battle can be won by standing on the defensive. Until the time comes to sally forth from the fortress (Britain) to the attack, remember that it is not sufficiently merely to defeat the attack on these islands."

The war minister's statement came shortly after the official disclosure that British landing parties had crossed the channel, attacked Nazi troops on the German occupied coastline and obtained valuable reconnaissance information.

Indications mounted today that at least some of France's warlike—floating armistice provisions for surrender—had cast its lot with Great Britain and pledged to the fight from North American bases.

Spanish sources and British reports from Gibraltar said French west Mediterranean naval squadrons had sped past Gibraltar to Casablanca, strategic Atlantic port of French Morocco.

French warships in the eastern Mediterranean last were reported remaining with the British fleet at Alexandria.

Positively Rubbish
One Berlin radio commentator, meanwhile, said the British government was trying to contact the axis powers, presumably for peace negotiations, but London officials said the report was "positively rubbish."

For the sixth time in nine days, wide-ranging German bombers swept over England from the southeast coast to northern Scotland. The air ministry said two of the raiders were shot down, and that no serious damage and "only slight" casualties were caused.

War Minister Anthony Eden predicted the "enemy bombing attack at night" would be continued and "possibly other forms of attack" attempted, but added:

"They will be repulsed," and "we shall subject the enemy in his own country to constant and heavy counter-attack from the air."

DNB, German news agency, reported.

21 Seniors Given Their Diplomas at Mountain School

Six Hundred Persons Are Present at Fleischmanns High School Rites; Pastor Is Speaker

Twenty-one seniors were graduated from Fleischmanns High School on Monday evening at the 30th annual commencement. The graduates, faculty and board of education processed into the auditorium as the high school orchestra played. Fully 600 parents and friends witnessed this impressive ceremony. The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. Purdy Halstead, Jr., pastor of the Methodist Church in Pine Hill and Shandaken.

The principal address of the evening was given by the Rev. M. Charles Adam, pastor of the Methodist Church in Chatham. The whole audience was swayed by his remarkable control and use of the English language. His whole address was filled with humor, yet underneath it all was the meat that gives one food for thought.

He challenged the graduates of 1940 to have courage, stamina and perseverance and a will to win and their future would be assured.

This year an unusually large number of prizes were awarded to graduates. Many of those were given by local organizations to encourage and stimulate interest in the school. They were: The Reader's Digest prize which is presented annually to the valedictorian of the class. This is a complimentary subscription to the Reader's Digest for one year. This went to Kohar Kantzian.

The American Legion Auxiliary poster contest prizes which are presented annually for the best poster made by students in the grades as well as in high school. Competition is between Margaretville Central School and Fleischmanns High School. First place winners were all from Fleischmanns High School for the second consecutive year. For the fourth, fifth and sixth grade class Eva Rockwell won the first prize of $2. For the seventh, eighth and ninth grade class Betty Joan Noll won the first prize of $2. For the 10th, 11th and 12th grade class Donald Maxim won the first prize of $2. Honorable mention went to Hilton Kelly and Claude Newcomb. The Fleischmanns Home Bureau prize which was presented to the senior who had the highest average in vocational homemaking was won by Jean Kelly, who had an average of 93 per cent. This prize was $5.

The Board of Education prize was awarded to Gerald Ryder. This prize is awarded to the student with a major in science who has attained the highest average in three years of science. His average was 93 1/3 per cent. This prize was $5.

The Rotary Club prize was awarded to Jean Kelly. This prize is awarded to the student who in the opinion of the high school faculty is the best school citizen in the graduating class. Taken in consideration were scholarship, dependability, courtesy, initiative, school service and outside activities. This prize was $5.

The Latham Foundation Poster Contest is sponsored annually by the Latham Foundation for the promotion of humaneness to animals. Over 5,000 posters were entered in this contest from every state in the union, as well as Canada and several foreign countries. Last year 10 posters were entered and nine prizes were received. This year 17 posters were entered and 13 prizes were received. Only three other public schools in New York state received prizes. The following are the prize winners: Certificate of Merit to Carolyn George, first grade. Certificate of Merit to Donald Reed, second grade. Certificate of Merit to Lenora Edwards, fifth grade. Certificate of Merit to Eva Rockwell, sixth grade. Certificate of Merit to Leila Greene, seventh grade. Certificate of Merit to Norma Lou Judd, seventh grade. In addition to mobile showers, operated by the French Red Cross, front line troops have been given the facilities of a "library wagon," consisting of 2,000 volumes ranging from the classics to technical books.

Philosophy of One Close to the Soil

Lake Hill, N. Y.
June 24, 1940

The Editor
Kingston Daily Freeman
Dear Sir:

With so much disaster in the news it is a comfort to me to wake at dawn and see the black silhouette of our cow in the pasture. There is a rose flush in the east and the loam of the garden is dark with dew. When I cast my eyes over the peaceful fields of our valley and see the cattle grazing and the sweep of the wind in the corn I am aware of the power of peace living among people who can stay close to the soil.

I think that any one of us would defend his freedom with all the strength and resources he could command. No superman can ever hope to temper the mettle of Americans to his bidding. No race that holds its destiny in the earth will submit to force; we will face what we must with courage.

There is a wide span between the philosophy of force and the philosophy of freedom for the individual. It is this difference in human thought, in ideals and the lack of any, which permits persecution and suffering in Europe and contentment in America.

For most of us are content; although we face personal trials and tragedies we do not endure oppression of selfish tyranny. We are happy to live in a democracy where we can strike out for ourselves in our own ways.

I wonder if the politicians and news commentators who interpret American reactions ever get their ears close to the undercurrents of opinion in the widespread reaches of the farmlands and small towns. Do they hear the cattle lowing at night over the hay in the mangers and the peaceful call of the whippoorwill along the creek? Do they realize the million and more benefits which our country is deriving from its peaceful pursuit of happiness?

I do not deny the seriousness of the world situation or the concern we should all feel as the crises abroad effect our own economic structure and endanger the future of our democracy. I think we should do our part to alleviate the suffering of innocent people in the world battle fronts. We should stand behind our national defense program.

But we should also heed the voices of our more silent countrymen. Listen to Lem when he looks up from the potatoes he is cultivating and grins a crinkly greeting at his neighbor.

"Ho, Bill. Nice day ain't it. Look how good the potatoes are growing! Won't be long before they'll need spraying."

If you know Lem as well as I, you will understand that his first thought is always for the potatoes, for the crop and the soil, the weather and the day. He will fight anything which would interfere with his peaceful farming as he fights bugs with poison.

Let us not forget amidst all the bluster and hysterical shouting of the moment to draw near to our land at sundown. Remember the foundation of our faith and the America of spacious skies and fragrant fields! Drink from the spiritual reservoir of the evening sunset and replenish hearts with calmness and reflection. Listen to the sober voices of weary men at evening who want the peace and security of their homes and the comfort of their families.

For flesh is weak and dictators have a way of dying without notice. But those who cultivate the soil live on forever through the loins of their descendants. Their voices, banded together, can drown the shrill cadence of the superman.

Very truly yours,
LLOYD B. SURDAM.

PARENTS' RESPONSIBILITY

With the epidemic of degeneracy in our midst, it should behoove parents to enlarge the scope of their activities in the protection of their children. Two recent attacks on little girls in this city by mental defectives is sufficient proof that parental guidance in such matters is imperative.

Playgrounds and public parks, now opened for the summer season, where the children are happy and healthy, improving their physiques and generally enjoying themselves without danger of being run down by an automobile, might be a favorite spot for degenerates to attempt to lure innocent children. The park police and playground supervisors, who should be alert to such dangers, can be of some assistance in thwarting such danger, but the proper instruction by the parents will be the most effectual. If the children are to be spared possible serious injury at the hands of crack-brained characters, they must be taught the dangers by their parents. The responsibility rests with the parents and they cannot shirk this duty.

Children should be warned against talking or being friendly with strangers or entering places with any person, despite the professed nature of the visit.

If stiff sentences are meted out to those found guilty of such heinous crimes, it might impress others as to the seriousness of such base acts.

POLITICAL MAVERICK

Now that man Willkie, isn't he the limit as a presidential candidate? Friends and delegates who tried to look him up and get a line on his operations at Philadelphia were flabbergasted. Some of them were almost speechless with shock and rage. The very idea of a man trying to campaign for the presidential nomination without any headquarters, any billboards, any photos any buttons, any brass band!

To one friend who finally located him and began bawling him out as a lunatic amateur in the noble art of political campaigning, Willkie explained: "You get the contrast of my campaign, don't you? That's what I'm aiming at."

But the friend didn't and wouldn't see it. Willkie's conduct, his incredible informality and naivete, were nothing less than an insult to tradition and a peril to American institutions. Why, a candidate who would be so unconventional at a political convention, ignoring the advice of elder statesmen and political experts, might be guilty of almost any crime or breach of good taste. How could the country be safe in the hands of a man without respect for the sacred and elaborate ritual of a national convention?

ICELAND

Talk of Hitler grabbing Iceland raises another awkward question for America. Does our Monroe Doctrine apply there? And if so, would we fight for Iceland?

That heroic little island, while it is an Atlantic stepping-stone, happens to be closer to western Europe than to eastern United States. In fact, it is on a line with the western coast of Africa. And this fact alone may settle the question for millions of us. We like and admire the Icelanders, we may say, but we can't protect the whole world. We have to stop somewhere.

There are other considerations, of course. And it's impossible to make an absolute rule about such things. For England is even farther east than Iceland, and yet Americans may be willing to fight for England.

But that is a complex matter of racial ties, common culture, leadership in democracy, economic interest, and so on. And we already have England, or at any rate the British Empire, immediately north of us on this continent—a good neighbor and one with whom we can cooperate.

NORTHERN PEACE

"The land of the muskeg is wild and beautiful," writes an American newspaper woman trekking north from Alberta to the Arctic. "Beautiful with its spires of black and white spruce, its tamarack and aspen, its black streams and blue lakes and endless hummocks of moss. The cotton grass is full and downy. The ditches and half-submerged spaces are bright with marigolds, and everywhere are bluebells.

"To most of the passengers the muskeg was no novelty. They were Canadian mounties, clerics from the Anglican and Roman Catholic churches, missionaries, representatives of the venerable Hudson's Bay Co., and workers of various sorts 'going in' for one to five years. They go to missions and trading posts, and will not see the outside world again until they are considerably older.

"Although there are many sacrifices concerned with life in the little, isolated communities of the North, and many hardships, the people who return seem eager to go back, and quite content to leave the rest of the world to the south."

And why not? How many people now would jump at the chance of going into a peaceful wilderness until the world's present welter of blood and crime is over!

Framers of political platforms seem to have a terrible time in deciding what they think about everything. There's no such trouble in a dictatorship country. Hitler or Mussolini or Stalin would make up the committee's mind for it in five minutes.

There are still major miracles. That British crossing of the Channel was comparable to the Children of Israel escaping from Egypt across the Red Sea.

Speaking of American productive capacity, we seem to be going into quantity production of history and precedents.

"Man lives to learn, but slowly learns to live," wrote Byron; and nations are still dumber.

Wendell Willkie demonstrates, too, the political value of tousled hair.

KNOWN FACTS ABOUT CANCER

Because the cause of cancer has not been discovered you may feel that little or nothing is known about cancer and perhaps believe also that cancer is always fatal.

As a matter of fact much is known about cancer and much of what we were taught as students is still true, and much of it is known to be untrue now. One of my professors, a brilliant surgeon, told us that he believed the day would come when the germ or organism causing cancer would be discovered. Today none of our cancer research workers believe that cancer is due to an organism. Neither is it believed that cancer is caused by a parasite.

What then is known about cancer that everybody should know?

I have spoken before of the work of Dr. Maud Slye whose findings tend to show that there is something in the tissues of some individuals that permits the growth of cancer when irritated by any substance, whereas irritation by this same substance does not cause cancer in others. In other words, some individuals, whether by inheritance or otherwise, have a tendency to develop cancer.

An interesting article on cancer recently appeared in the lay magazine "Your Life." It was called Facts About Cancer and was written by Dr. Boris Sokoloff. Among the facts about cancer are:

Scientists know as much about the diagnosis (symptoms) and cure of cancer as they do about tuberculosis.

They know that cancer is not a hereditary disease.

Still, there exists a tendency or predisposition to cancer the same as in tuberculosis.

Cancer is not a contagious disease.

Diet seems to have no direct effect upon cancer.

Cancer is not a germ disease, nor is it due to a parasite.

Cancer is a revolt of apparently normal cells due to continued and repeated irritation.

Chemicals as well as physical irritations frequently cause cancer.

Cancer, if discovered in its early stage, can be cured (by surgery, X-rays, or radium).

There is as yet no blood test which gives one hundred per cent proof of early internal cancer.

However, periodical X-ray examinations are of considerable value in the control of cancer.

ON THE PHILA. FRONT—A PEEK O'ER THE TRANSOM By Bressler

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"
By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

Mount St. Alphonsus, the new novitiate of the Redemptorist Fathers at Esopus, was dedicated and consecrated by Archbishop Farley of New York on Thursday, May 21, 1908, with imposing ceremonies.

The building, a massive structure, is located on the old Robert L. Pell farm at Esopus, and occupies a commanding position overlooking the Hudson river. It was planned to be the home of the Redemptorist Fathers in the east and there they planned to prepare young men for the priesthood.

The new novitiate, it was said, cost approximately two million dollars, and adjoins Rosemount, the home of the late Judge Alton B. Parker.

The building is constructed of gray granite brought to Esopus from Port Deposit, Md., and is six stories in height. It has a frontage of 450 feet and a depth of 250 feet, and the central part is surmounted by two gray granite bell towers. In shape the building resembles the letter "E."

Fully two thousand persons visited the building on the day it was dedicated by the archbishop, and two steamboats were needed to bring those who attended the ceremonies from the Redemptorist Fathers' churches in New York city, Brooklyn, Boston and Philadelphia.

In the dedication service Archbishop was assisted by the Right Rev. Monsignor Richard Lalor Burtzell of St. Mary's Church, this city, and a host of widely known clergymen from New York city and vicinity.

Families of many of the seminarians arrived in Esopus on Wednesday and remained over for the consecration and dedication ceremonies the following day.

It was in May, 1908, that the monument that stands over the grave of Governor George Clinton in the yard of the First Dutch Church at Main and Wall streets, was positioned. The monument was originally erected over the grave in the Congressional Cemetery in Washington, D. C., where it was placed by members of his family after his death on April 20, 1812. At the time of his death Governor Clinton was serving as vice president of the United States and died in Washington.

The monument from base to tip is over nine feet in height and weighs 19 tons. The contract to re-erect the monument was awarded to Contractor W. S. Green of this city.

The contractor erected a high board fence around the site of the proposed excavation on which the monument was to stand. An excavation of nearly ten feet deep was made and a cement bed, two feet in thickness, was laid. Then space was left in which to place the concrete bed and after that a solid concrete bed was built up to the level of the ground on which the monument was to stand.

The body of Governor Clinton was brought to this city and reburied in the old First Dutch Church yard as a part of the ceremonies that marked the 250th anniversary of the founding of Kingston.

Hull-Farley Ticket Is Forecast
By Three Guessers On Sidelines

By JACK STINNETT

Washington—From three widely divergent sources—none of them reliable—comes the conclusion that the Democratic ticket will consist of Cordell Hull, of the Pickett County, Tenn., Huls, and James A. Farley, the wizard of Grassy Point (N. Y.).

The sources are: (1) A southerner who has for two generations been an outstanding leader in the Democratic party outside of Washington. (2) A prominent New England Republican politician. (3) A mid-western political observer without an axe to grind either way.

None of these three could possibly have any contact. I can't figure how they could have arrived at the same conclusion. But they did . . . and that's the point, if there is any.

What They Say

A synthesis of their reasoning was something like this: (1) President Roosevelt, no matter what his political convictions, is primarily interested in the unification of America in the present crisis. (2) He is convinced that he could not obtain this by running for a third term and diverting public attention to the business of shattering a precedent. (3) His greatest interest is in promulgating the foreign policies that his administration has set up and the only definite assurance of that would be the selection of a man in sympathy with those policies and yet one in whom the politicians and the voters could have confidence. (4) Since the only such man on the horizon is Hull and, from a practical political standpoint, Hull would have the strongest Democratic party running mate if he is to win, the only possible person is Farley. (5) Farley not only would have great strength at the polls but would have the confidence and support of all the old-time politicians in the party.

These men also argue: That there very likely is something to the rumor that President Roosevelt would offer cabinet posts to Republicans with the assurance that they would not run for a third term. The President is too good a politician not to be aware that no matter what the attitude of the voting public is at convention time, he would have to play every card right in the greatest international poker game in history to keep that spirit the same from July until November

That intimate friends and members of his family are opposed to the President's taking on four more years of the physical drain of White House occupancy That he cannot afford to give the Republicans a trump (in arguments against a third term, no matter who the candidate might be) by trying to crush another political precedent at this time.

There's still another point, second hand That Farley told a friend several weeks ago that the decision had been made: "It's Hull and me," he was reported to have said.

FDR In Cabinet?

When I've added one thing more to this legend, I'll leave it to the face of precedent It is that Roosevelt (if the European crisis continues) will take the job in Hull's cabinet of Secretary of State.

From that position, it is argued, he could carry on the Roosevelt foreign policies and virtually direct the affairs of the nation as a whole . . . without making new enemies by upsetting the third-term apple-cart.

As I said in the first place, I'm just passing this along for its two cents worth. The sources are not members of the inner circle. The southerner is a publisher. The easterner is a man high in the ranks of the G.O.P. The westerner is a writer of renown who hasn't had sufficient courage to circulate his theory in writing.

The only reason it's worth mentioning is that the "third term" ground swell which swept Washington immediately after the Nazi break-through of the French lines and persisted in the days when French resistance was collapsing seems to have died down and almost every observer here who's worth his salt is beginning again to talk about the possibilities of a Democratic ticket, exclusive of F. D. R.

No Outstanding Republican Candidate for Nomination Could Object to Party's Platform, Especially Foreign Policy

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Philadelphia, June 27.—No candidate whose name has been mentioned prominently as a possible nominee of this Republican national convention could possibly take exception to the platform and particularly to the foreign policy plank which is a model of simplicity in expressing the public sentiment of the United States at the moment.

The platform declares for defense of the Monroe Doctrine and everybody is for that. It declares for "no involvement" in foreign wars which means, of course, no deliberate provocation by anything done by the United States government itself. It declares, moreover, for the extension of all possible aid to Democratic nations but such aid must "not be in violation of international law or inconsistent with the requirements of our own national defense."

This provision is broad enough to take care of all possible contingencies whether America becomes a belligerent or remains a non-belligerent. Technically, it is no violation of international law to export all sorts of weapons and arms and airplanes to foreign countries engaged in war. Likewise, it is no violation of international law for citizens to impose a moral embargo and refrain from selling to belligerents with whom we are not in sympathy.

To extend aid to foreign countries by re-selling them old equipment or to stimulate our productive processes by accepting foreign orders so as to build up armament capacity for our own defense is also not a violation of international law.

So with the exception of selling certain equipment which the army and navy might oppose such as the mosquito torpedo boats, there is nothing really different from that which the Roosevelt administration has been doing to aid the allies.

The one important difference, of course, is the condemnation of the President's recent speech about Italy stabbing France in the back. This was covered in a sentence which said the convention deplored "explosive utterances by the President directed at other governments which serve to imperil our peace."

Now that France has surrendered, however, the Charlotteville speech seemed to the Republicans to have lent itself to a bit of political attack, but this hardly interferes with the practical program of building up defenses or selling equipment to the British.

NEW PALTZ NEWS

Central High School Exercises

New Paltz, June 27.—The seniors of the Central High School held their class night exercises Monday night in the high school auditorium, the music was furnished by the band, orchestra and Glee Club. There was dancing after the program with the high school orchestra furnishing the music.

Richard Barringer delivered the presidents address; the class history by Catherine Keller and John Longo; class prophecy, Marie Kierman and Frank Thomas; class will by Katherine Beebe and Herman Thoben and the class ballot was in charge of Shirley Chase and Edith Schneider the class song with words by Virginia Juckett was sung by the entire class. A presentation of a picture to the school by Mrs. Gilbert Bevier, president of the Parent-Teachers Association in behalf of the association. Doris Corwin was in charge of the mementoes.

At commencement Tuesday night the Rev. Gerret Wulfschleger of New Paltz Reformed Church gave the address, Mary Jenkins, the valedictory and Helen Atkins the salutatory. Principal Ray Cunningham gave the awards and Harvey Gregory, president of the Board of Education presented the diplomas to the 69 graduates.

Mrs. Bruyn Deyo spent a few days last week with Mrs. Josephine Richardson and Mrs. Curtis in Poughkeepsie.

Nellie Cole spent Thursday night and Friday with Miss Emma Neil and Mrs. Bruyn Deyo and Saturday and Sunday with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Frost in St. Remy.

The last high school assembly of the year was held last Friday a French play was presented by the French three class, the play, "La Surprise d'Isador" was directed by Mrs. S. McKenna of the French department. The principal play were: Martin Jansen, Esther Johnson, Laurel DuBois, Rowland Johnson, and Olive Atkins. Mary Joyce was stage manager and Ruth Grindred, prompter.

The Mohonk Lake Trio with Alice M. Smiley violinist, Rachel Trem, cellist made their first appearance on Tuesday evening in the House Parlor.

Miss Rose Schulman of Rural avenue entertained the following guests at a party at her home Friday night: The Misses Anna Mae Conklin, Nancy Taylor, Ethel Mae Tamney, Irene Pulver, Betty Statts, Ellen Davis and Peter Simon, Manuel Venites, William Clinton, Gilbert Bevier, Don Terwilliger, Charles Savage, and William Eldard. All enjoyed a very delightful evening and a delicious supper was served.

The high school baseball team played the play off game with Highland for the NOSU League championship at Marlborough on Friday the home team was defeated by a score 8 to 0, this means if "not inconsistent with the requirements of our own national defense."

The danger here in the platform making was that a foreign plank would be adopted which would hurt the chances of some candidates and improve the chances of the isolationists. Actually, the candidacy of Wendell Willkie, for instance, has been helped by the platform plank for his speeches from the stage. Having been actually in the platform just completed.

As for domestic issues, the platform is rather ingenious. Brevity is a virtue because in general statement there is no strength whereas in specific statement there is often embarrassment. The labor plank is a more progressive than had been expected. The declaration in favor of "sound collective bargaining" is unqualified and there is no pointed reference to the recent disclosures concerning the administration of the National Labor Relations Act by the Labor Department. The existing law is recommended, but no reference is made to any particular amendments as expressing the platform objective.

The platform's commendation of social security and a continuation of benefit payments in agriculture is not surprising. The Republican campaign this time is apparently to accept most of the objectives of the New Deal, but to insist that the New Deal has failed to carry them out in fairly written legislation or in fair or efficient administration.

The declaration against a third term takes the form of a proposal that the constitution be amended. This is about all the Republicans could do for they do not know what the Democratic convention intends. The challenge uttered by Herbert Hoover to the Democrats to renounce Mr. Roosevelt shows that the Republicans aren't going to make any personal attack on the President but on the idea of a "third term for any president."

Altogether, the Republicans have wiggled out of some uncomfortable situations in writing their platform. The truth is, the nominee of the convention has been given a series of planks broad enough to let him fill in the details as the exigencies of campaigning and changing events may require. Between now and November, that's about all that can be expected of politically chosen platform makers in the hectic days and nights of a national convention of either major party.

Leading the procession are left to right: Mrs. H. A. Pressman, Irving A. Adler, Mrs. Ruth Lazarnik and H. A. Pressman, all of Baltimore. Widespread reports of gains by Willkie were sharply disputed by the camp of Ohio's Senator Robert A. Taft, another candidate for the nomination.

Captain Rescues Son

Colorado Springs (AP)—There's an old wheeze about the shoemaker's son having no shoes but when Fire Captain D. A. Cosgrove's 20-month-old heir needs to be rescued there's first rate professional parental attention at his command. Cosgrove's company was summoned to the captain's home when the youngster locked himself in the bathroom. The captain broke a window, climbed a ladder and found the boy gaily splashing in a bathtub filled with water.

Record Peacetime Enlistments Seen

Col. Magruder Believes Enlistments May Top High Mark in June

With 1,326 enlistments during June 1 to 24, Col. L. B. Magruder, U. S. Army Recruiting Officer for New York, New Jersey and Delaware, thinks this month may top the high mark for peacetime enlistments achieved last January when 1,826 new soldiers from the Second Corps Area were added to the army. Col. Magruder's office at 39 Whitehall street, Manhattan, cleared 3,182 applications during the first 24 days of this month, an unusually high figure. June 18, with 110 enlistments was a day that almost equaled the 116 of January 9, 1940, the peak day of peacetime recruiting in this corps area. Monday, June 24, 229 applications were taken, netting 100 enlistments. A good day's average is set normally at 60.

Manhattan proper has made a significant contribution to the swelling total of June and it is estimated that New York city (southern New York Recruiting District) will furnish 1,000 men this month, going over the previous one-month record of 800 for the city.

The recruiting impetus here is accredited by Col. Magruder to widespread newspaper and radio publicity, coupled with an augmented recruiting force which has grown during May and June from approximately 100 to nearly 200 by addition of specially assigned or "allocated" personnel taken from other types of duty.

"Preparedness Requirement No.

1," a name applied to a quota of 677 recruits to be obtained in the Second Corps Area by June 30, 1940, has been completed for the corps area posts and needs now but 229 men for the Fourth Corps Area, of which 204 are for the Field Artillery at Fort Bragg, N. C.

A second quota, "Preparedness Requirement No. 2," to be filled by August 31, 1940, creates 2,876 vacancies in addition which added to the unfilled vacancies for Fort Bragg and more than 300 men for Panama, makes at least 3,382 enlistments expected from this corps area within the next nine weeks. To this high figure there will be added other vacancies to take care of normal replacements of men being discharged at the end of their three-year enlistments. This will keep recruiting offices still working late in the evening filling the ranks with single male citizens between the ages of 18 and 35, physically fit and without dependents.

Deputy Sheriffs Wesley O'Brien and Herbert Segelken, who for several weeks past have been guarding the old Eagle Hotel property nights, have been released from that duty as Amell Bros. started yesterday to raze the building.
The guards were put on too late to stop what is said to have been a pretty thorough ransacking and looting of the property during the time it lay idle.

It was discovered that a large amount of plumbing fixtures, including all of the more modern equipment, bath tubs, wash bowls, etc., with faucets, piping and the like, had been taken out. In some cases bowls were broken in order to remove metal fixtures.
It is said that even the electric switch box was pulled loose and carted away and a bag of coarse salt, hidden away in a dark closet, for use in sprinkling the walks in icy weather, was stolen.

Later different persons reported having seen pick-up trucks parked near the hotel, in one case near a back alley away on Fair street, but they thought nothing of it at the time.

Shy Senator Taft, Ohio Favorite, Shuns Glamour, Flowery Talk

AP Feature Service

Another Taft is knocking at the door of the White House.

He is Robert Alphonso Taft . . . United States senator, corporation lawyer, taxation expert, demon debater . . . 50, big framed, large mouthed, baldish, firm of jaw, stolid in manner.

He's the son of the only man ever to be both President and Chief Justice.

A candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, he's a political paradox. Even his best friends don't really know him and even his admirers say he's "too high-minded to be in politics."

He Admits It

Of glamour, he has none—and is proud of it. Of close friends, he has few—and admits it.

"He walks down the street," a friend once commented, "as if he had limburger cheese on his tie."

Associates tried to dissuade him from running for the United States Senate in 1938 for fear of a defeat. Political wiseacres figured Taft didn't have a chance to beat popular, back-slapping Arthur H. Day, a Supreme Court judge, in the primary.

They didn't know then that Taft, beneath his professorial spectacles and conservative clothes, was a man of strong convictions. He shunned flowery speeches, because he thought the people were tired of them. He talked like a classroom lecturer.

He won the nomination by 76,000 votes and defeated the New Deal senator, Robert J. Bulkley, by a 170,000 majority.

Born at Cincinnati September 8, 1890, Taft was a top student at the Taft School (Conn.), first in his Yale class, first at the Harvard Law school, first in the Ohio bar examination. He chose to practice on his own in Cincinnati.

Speaks His Mind

He went to the Ohio legislature in 1921, was speaker in 1926. Later he was in the Ohio senate, but lost a try at re-election. He had devoted most of his time to tax case simplification. In 1936 he was a favorite son candidate for President.

Taft speaks his mind regardless of the subject. He believes that a candidate is duty bound to inform the public where he stands. Some Republicans thought Taft was sticking his neck out last year when he debated national issues with T. V. Smith, New Deal congressman from Illinois, a professor of philosophy and a brilliant orator. But a poll showed 64 per cent of the listeners thought Taft had the best argument.

Those Detective Stories

Taft writes his own speeches, does much of his own research. On a campaign tour, he averages six hours' sleep a night.

A golfer who shoots in the low 80's, he also relaxes by reading detective stories and by swimming. He buys beer by the barrel for political followers, but doesn't relish the brew himself. He likes a sociable highball, but never more than two. Some say he's extremely wealthy; others, that he is "only comfortably fixed."

During the World war, he tried twice to enlist, but was turned down because of far-sightedness. So he became assistant counsel of the United States food administration. Later he went abroad with Hoover's relief expedition.

He received decorations from Poland, Belgium and Finland, but never wears them.

He has a good political ally in his wife—pretty, brainy Martha Bowers, daughter of Lloyd Bowers who was solicitor general in President Taft's administration. They were married in 1914 and have four sons, 14 to 24 years old. As a campaigner, Mrs. Taft is said to be better than her husband.

Just One More Election To the Pierre Citizens

Pierre, S. D. — Voters in this South Dakota capital will be skillful ballot markers when November rolls around. They already have been to the polls five times this year.

A regular election was called to fill a vacant mayorship. Commissioner Roberts resigned and Commissioner Griffin kept his job to campaign. Griffin was elected mayor, but so many candidates tried for Roberts' commissionership that Election No. 2 was held to break the ties.

In Election No. 3, city voters participated in state primaries. No. 4 was called when Commissioner Oldaker resigned to become police chief and Griffin resigned to be sworn as mayor. Several tried for Griffin's commission job. One filed for Oldaker's and was elected. But again none won a majority in the Griffin race, and No. 5 was held as a run-off.

Just to keep in trim, many residents here will be voting in the state Republican and Democratic conventions and in some of the half dozen fraternal conventions here between now and November.

Harold Cohen Takes Job With U.S. Court of Appeals

Harold D. Cohen of 44 Abeel street, this city, has resigned from the staff of the New York State Law Revision Commission to accept the position of law secretary to Justice Henry W. Edgerton of the United States Court of Appeals in Washington, D. C. It was announced today.

Mr. Cohen has returned from Ithaca to spend the summer vacation with his parents before assuming his new duties.

The governor takes office in January in every state except Louisiana, where the governor's term begins in May.

Musical Program At Rotary Club

Sunny Sue Unit Entertains at Service Club Meeting

Sunny Sue and her Sunset Ranch boys entertained the members of the Rotary Club on Wednesday at the Governor Clinton Hotel. The accomplished musicians, secured through the courtesy of Station WKNY, gave a delightful instrumental and vocal program, which was greatly enjoyed.

Donald Hicks, who was awarded the Rotary prize of $10, was a guest of the club. Young Mr. Hicks thanked the members and expressed appreciation of the great interest shown by Rotary in youth. The award is made by the club to the young man having developed most satisfactorily during his junior and senior year in all Kingston High School activities, scholarship, mental and physical alertness.

Eugene Pemberton, who was a delegate to Rotary International convention held in Havana, Cuba, gave interesting highlights of the sessions during and after the meetings. Pictures taken at the convention will be shown at a later date.

At the close of the entertainment program, President B. C. Van Ingen was presented with a past presidents' pin upon handing over the gavel to the newly elected President, Albert Kurdt. Past President Van Ingen thanked the chairman and members of the general committees and also the entire membership for their generous support and wholehearted cooperation during the past year. President Kurdt announced that next week's luncheon on Wednesday would be held with the Kiwanis Club. Dr. Allen A. Stockdale of New York will be the guest speaker.

Summer High School Will Open on July 1

Sessions Will Continue Until August 22; No Registrations After Tuesday, July 2

The annual summer high school will open on July 1 and run until August 22. The sessions will be held on every school day from 8 o'clock until 12 o'clock noon, with the exception of July 4 and 5.

All students who plan to attend the school must register on Monday morning, July 1, at 8:30 o'clock. No registrations will be accepted after July 2.

The purpose of the summer school is intended for three classes of pupils: First, candidates for entrance to college in the following September; pupils repeating work in which they have failed; and pupils of exceptional ability who wish to shorten their high school course.

Courses in Civics, Economic Citizenship, Economic Geography 1 and Economic Geography 2 are open to all students.

For students who have failed in regular term work and are repeating, classes will be offered in the following subjects: English 1, 2, 3, 4; Latin 1 and 2; French, Physics, Chemistry, General Mathematics, Elementary Algebra, Intermediate Algebra, Plane Geometry, Commercial Arithmetic, General Biology, General Science, Civics, Economic Citizenship, History A, History B, History C, Economic Geography I and II.

Pupils will be allowed to take an advanced term of any of the above subjects if the preceding term's work in that subject shows an average of 85 per cent or more. Special cases may be considered by the principal. Bring last report card at time of registration.

No pupil will be permitted to register for a subject he has never studied in an approved high school for at least 10 weeks.

No class will be formed for less than 10 pupils.

No classes will be offered in drawing, shop, homemaking or commercial subjects except those mentioned above.

Pupils who have never attended an approved high school will not be admitted. There will be no tuition charge for high school pupils whose parents live within the boundaries of the city of Kingston. Non-residents from other high schools will be permitted to register upon the recommendation of their principal, providing they comply with the rules as stated herein, and present a statement from the principal with their grades and time spent in that subject. Tuition for non-residents will be ten dollars per subject, payable in advance. No pupil will be permitted to register for more than two subjects. Attendance must be regular and prompt. Idlers will be promptly dismissed after one warning.

T. L. Culver, vice principal of the Kingston High School, will act as principal of the summer school. All of his assistants will be Kingston High School teachers who are specialists in the subjects they teach.

On the 21st and 22nd of August, regents and school examinations will be given in practically all the subjects taught in the summer school. Standings earned in regents examinations in August may be applied toward a regents academic or college entrance diploma. To be admitted to the final examinations, all students must have been in attendance thirty or more days. There can be no exception to this rule of the regents.

Summer Elementary School
For elementary students who have failed the regents examination in two subjects and are therefore not qualified to enter high school, there will be a summer school under an experienced teacher. Credit earned in summer school will admit the student to high school.

Students in the 8-A division in the M. J. M. School who have failed in two (2) subjects may take these subjects in the summer school.

Non-resident students are required to pay a tuition charge of $10 per subject, payable in advance. There will be no charge for students whose parents live within the boundaries of the city of Kingston.

The dates for registration, etc., are exactly the same as for the summer high school given above.

Three Defendants Are Arraigned in City Court

Henry Barnes, 19, of 64 Emerick street, was arrested Wednesday evening by Sylvester Demski, who charged Barnes with assault in the third degree. This morning the hearing was adjourned to Tuesday.

day. The alleged assault took place in front of the city hall. Frank Ferris of New York city was fined $3 for public intoxication when arraigned in police court today.

James Henry Wright of R. P. D. 3, Kingston, charged with driving a car on Greenkill avenue without having an operator's license, was fined $5.

Wilton, Conn., June 27 (P.)—Helen Keller, the blind author and lecturer, celebrated her 60th birthday at her home here today, but it was "a day of mourning rather than a day of gaiety." Testimony Ends In Bloise Trial

Haver in Summation Says Defendant's Charge of Threat Ridiculous

Testimony was closed Wednesday afternoon in the Vincent Bloise manslaughter case on trial in county court and Michael Nardone, counsel for the defendant, summed up. Stressing the confession which has been offered in evidence Nardone dwelt upon the testimony of the defendant that this confession had been secured through fright when

State Troopers threatened Bloise. District Attorney N. LeVan Haver followed with his summation in which he called it ridiculous that Bloise had been threatened by officers when the statement was secured at the court house on a Saturday night when numerous people were about the building and according to testimony offered, the statement was taken in the office in the front of the building by a stenographer in the presence of several persons. Bloise on the witness stand testified Wednesday the confession had been taken by officers in the "gun room" of the court house. The room he referred to is the small front office in which the pistol permit office is maintained. He charged that State Troopers pointed a gun at him and told him to tell his story. Several witnesses testified there had been no threats or promises made and the confession was typed out after Bloise had told his story at the scene of the shooting at Ardona after being urged by his father to "tell the truth." He was given an opportunity to read the statement over and make any corrections he desired before signing it, according to witnesses present at the time.

Following the charge by County Judge A. J. Cook this morning the case was sent to the jury for deliberation.

Text of Republican Platform

word or deed during the absence of our elected representatives from Washington.

It has failed by disclosing military details of our equipment to foreign powers over protests by the heads of our armed defense.

It has failed by ignoring the lessons of fact concerning modern, mechanized, armed defense.

In these and countless other ways the New Deal administration has either deliberately deceived the American people or proved itself incompetent longer to handle the affairs of our government.

The zero hour is here. America must prepare at once to defend her shores, our homes, our lives and our most cherished ideals.

To establish a first line of defense we must place in official positions men of faith who put America first and who are determined that our governmental and economic system be kept unimpaired.

Our national defense must be so strong that no unfriendly power shall ever set foot on American soil. To assure this strength our national economy, the true basis of America's defense, must be free of unwarranted government interference.

Only a strong and sufficiently prepared America can speak words of reassurance and hope to the liberty-loving peoples of the world.

National Defense

The Republican party is firmly opposed to involving this nation in foreign war.

We are still suffering from the ill effects of the last World War; a war which cost us a twenty-four-billion-dollar increase in our national debt, billions of uncollectable foreign debts, and the complete upset of our economic system, in addition to the loss of human life and irreparable damage to the health of thousands of our boys.

The present national administration has already spent for all purposes more than fifty-four billion dollars—has boosted the national debt and current Federal taxes to an all-time high; and yet by the President's own admission we are still wholly unprepared to defend our country, its institutions and our individual liberties in a war that threatens to engulf the whole world; and this in spite of the fact that foreign wars have been in progress for two years or more and that military information concerning these wars and the rearmament programs of the warring nations has been at all times available to the national administration through its diplomatic and other channels.

The Republican party stands for Americanism, preparedness and peace. We accordingly fasten upon the New Deal full responsibility for our unpreparedness and for the consequent danger of involvement in war.

We declare for the prompt, orderly and realistic building of our national defense to the point at which we shall be able not only to defend the United States, its possessions, and essential outposts from foreign attack but also efficiently to uphold in war the Monroe Doctrine. To this task the Republican party pledges itself when intrusted with national authority. In the mean time we shall support all necessary and proper defense measures proposed by the Administration in its belated effort to make up for lost time; but we deplore explosive utterances by the President directed at other governments which serve to imperil our peace; and we condemn all Executive acts and proceedings which might lead to war without the authorization of the Congress of the United States.

Our sympathies have been profoundly stirred by invasion of unoffending countries and by disaster to nations whose ideals most closely resemble ours. We favor the extension of such aid as shall not be in violation of international law or inconsistent with the requirements of our own national defense.

We believe that the spirit which should animate our entire defensive policy is determination to preserve not our material interests merely, but those liberties which are the priceless heritage of America.

Re-employment

The New Deal's failure to solve the problem of unemployment and revive opportunity for our youth presents a major challenge to representative government and free enterprise. We propose to recreate opportunity for the youth of America and put our idle millions back to work in private industry, business and agriculture. We propose to eliminate needless administrative restrictions, thus restoring lost motion to the wheels of individual enterprise.

Relief

We shall remove waste, discrimination and politics from relief—through administration by the states with Federal grants-in-aid on a fair non-political basis, thus giving the man and woman on relief a larger share of the funds appropriated.

Social Security

We favor the extension of necessary old-age benefits on an earmarked pay-as-you-go basis to the extent that the revenues raised for this purpose will permit. We favor the extension of the unemployment compensation provisions of the social security act, wherever practicable, to those groups and classes not now included. For such groups as may thus be covered we favor a system of unemployment compensation with experience rating provisions, aimed at protecting the worker in the regularity of his employment and providing adequate compensation for reasonable periods when the regularity of employment is interrupted. The administration should be left with the states with a minimum of Federal control.

Labor Relations

The Republican party has always protected the American worker. We shall maintain labor's right of free organization and collective bargaining.

We believe that peace and prosperity at home require harmony, teamwork and understanding in all relations between worker and employer. When differences arise, they should be settled directly and voluntarily across the table.

Recent disclosures respecting the administration of the national labor relations act require that this act be amended in fairness to employers and all groups of employees so as to provide true freedom for, and orderliness in self-organization and collective bargaining.

Agriculture

A prosperous and stable agriculture is the foundation of our economic structure. Its preservation is a national and non-political social problem not yet solved, despite many attempts. The farmer is entitled to a profit-price for his products. The Republican party will put into effect such governmental policies, temporary and permanent, as will establish and maintain an equitable balance, between labor, industry and agriculture by expanding industrial and business activity, eliminating unemployment, lowering production costs, thereby creating increased consumer buying for agricultural products.

Until this balance has been attained, we propose to provide benefit payments, based upon a widely applied, constructive soil conservation program free from government-dominated production control, but administered, as far as practicable, by farmers themselves; to restrict the major benefits of these payments to operators of family-type farms; to continue all present benefit payments until our program becomes operative; and to eliminate the present extensive and costly bureaucratic interference.

We shall provide incentive payments, when necessary to encourage increased production of agricultural commodities, adaptable to our soil and climate, not now produced in sufficient quantities for our home markets, and will stimulate the use and processing of all farm products in industry as raw materials.

We shall promote a co-operative system of adequate farm credit, at lowest interest rates commensurate with the cost of money, supervised by an independent governmental agency, with ultimate farmer ownership and control; farm commodity loans to facilitate orderly marketing and stabilize farm income; the expansion of sound, farmer-owned and farmer-controlled co-operative associations; and the support of educational and extension programs to achieve more efficient production and marketing.

We shall foster government refinancing, where necessary, of the heavy Federal farm debt load through an agency segregated from co-operative credit.

We shall promote a national land use program for Federal acquisition, without dislocation of local tax returns, of non-productive farm lands by voluntary sale or lease subject to approval of the states concerned; and the disposition of such lands to appropriate public uses including watershed protection and flood prevention, reforestation, recreation, erosion control and the conservation of wildlife.

We advocate a foreign trade policy which will end one-man tariff making, afford effective protection to farm products, regain our export markets, and assure an American price level for the domestically consumed portion of our export crops.

We favor effective quarantine against imported livestock, dairy and other farm products from countries which do not impose health and sanitary standards equal to our own domestic standards.

We approve the orderly development of reclamation and irrigation, project by project and as conditions justify.

Equal Rights

We favor submission by Congress to the states of an amendment to the Constitution providing for equal rights for men and women.

Negro

We pledge that our American citizens of Negro descent shall be given a square deal in the economic and political life of this nation. Discrimination in the civil service, the Army, Navy, and all other branches of the government must cease. To enjoy the full benefits of life, liberty and pursuit of happiness, universal suffrage must be made effective for the Negro citizen. Mob violence shocks the conscience of the nation and legislation to curb this evil should be enacted.

Un-American Activities

We vigorously condemn the New Deal encouragement of various groups that seek to change the American form of government by means outside the Constitution. We condemn the appointment of members of such un-American groups to high positions of trust in the national government. The development of the treacherous so-called "fifth column," as it has operated in war-stricken countries, should be a solemn warning to America. We pledge the Republican party to get rid of such bidders from within.

Immigration

We favor the strict enforcement of all laws controlling the entry of aliens. The activities of undesirable aliens should be investigated and those who seek to change by force and violence the American form of government should be deported.

Veterans

We pledge adequate compensation and care for veterans disabled in the service of our country, and for their widows, orphans and dependents.

Indians

We pledge an immediate and final settlement of all Indian claims between the government and the Indian citizenship of the nation.

Hawaii

Hawaii, sharing the nation's obligations equally with the several states, is entitled to the fullest measure of home rule; and to equality with the several states in the rights of her citizens and in the application of our national laws.

Government and Business

We shall encourage a healthy, confident and growing private enterprise, confine government activity to essential public services and regulate business only so as to protect consumer, employee and investor and without restricting the production of more and better goods at lower prices.

Monopoly

Since the passage of the Sherman anti-trust act by the Republican party, we have consistently fought to preserve free competition with regulation to prevent abuse. New Deal policy fosters government monopoly, restricts production and fixes prices. We shall enforce anti-trust legislation without prejudice or discrimination. We condemn the use or threatened use of criminal indictments to obtain through consent decrees objectives not contemplated by law.

Government Competition

We promise to reduce to the minimum Federal competition with business. We pledge ourselves to establish honest accounting and reporting by every agency of the Federal government and to continue only those enterprises whose maintenance is clearly in the public interest.

Free Speech

The principles of a free press and free speech, as established by the Constitution, should apply to the radio. Federal regulation of radio is necessary in view of the natural limitations of wave lengths, but this gives no excuse for censorship. We oppose the use of licensing to establish arbitrary controls. Licenses should be revocable only when, after public hearings, due cause for cancellation is shown.

We promise adequate assistance to rural communities suffering disasters from flood, drought and other natural causes.

We shall promote stabilization of agricultural income through intelligent management of accumulated surpluses, and through the development of outlets by supplying those in need at home and abroad.

Tariff and Reciprocal Trade

We are threatened by unfair competition in world markets and by the invasion of our home markets, especially by the products of state-controlled foreign economies.

We believe in tariff protection for agriculture, labor and industry, as essential to our American standard of living. The measure of the protection shall be determined by scientific methods, with due regard to the interest of the consumer.

We shall explore every possibility of reopening the channels of international trade through negotiations so conducted as to produce genuine reciprocity and expand our exports.

We condemn the manner in which the so-called reciprocal trade agreements of the New Deal have been put into effect without adequate hearings, with undue haste, without proper consideration of our domestic producers, and without Congressional approval. These defects we shall correct.

Money

The Congress should reclaim its constitutional powers over money, and withdraw the President's arbitrary authority to manipulate the currency, establish bimetalism, issue irredeemable paper money and debase the gold and silver coinage. We shall repeal the Thomas inflation amendment of 1933 and the (foreign) silver purchase act of 1934, and take all possible steps to preserve the value of the government's huge holdings of gold and reintroduce gold into circulation.

Jobs and Idle Money

Believing it possible to keep the securities market clean without paralyzing it, we endorse the principal of truth in securities in the securities act. To get billions of idle dollars and a multitude of idle men back to work and to promote national defense, these acts should be revised and the policies of the commission changed to encourage the flow of private capital into industry.

Taxation

Public spending has trebled under the New Deal, while tax burdens have doubled. Huge taxes are necessary to pay for New Deal waste and for neglected national defense. We shall revise the tax system and remove those practices which impede recovery and shall apply policies which stimulate enterprise. We shall not use the taxing power as an instrument of punishment or to secure objectives not otherwise obtainable under existing law.

Public Credit

With urgent need for adequate defense, the people are burdened by a direct and contingent debt exceeding fifty billion dollars. Twenty-nine billions of this debt has been created by New Deal borrowings during the last seven years. We pledge ourselves to conserve the public credit for all essential purposes by levying taxation sufficient to cover necessary civil expenditure, a substantial part of the defense cost and the interest and retirement of the national debt.

Public Spending

Millions of men and women still out of work after seven years of excessive spending refute the New Deal theory that "deficit spending" is the way to prosperity and jobs. Our American system of private enterprise, if permitted to go to work, can rapidly increase the wealth, income and standard of living of all the people. We solemnly pledge that public expenditures, other than those required for full national defense and relief, shall be cut to levels necessary for the essential services of government.

Small Business

The New Deal policy of interference and arbitrary regulation has injured all business, but especially small business. We promise to encourage the small-business man by removing unnecessary bureaucratic regulation and interference.

Stock and Commodity Exchanges

We favor regulation of stock and commodity exchanges. They should be accorded the fullest measure of self-control consistent with the discharge of their public trust and the prevention of abuse.

Insurance

We condemn the New Deal attempts to destroy the confidence of our people in private insurance institutions. We favor continuance of regulation of insurance by the several states.

Government Reorganization

We shall re-establish in the Federal Civil Service a real merit system on a truly competitive basis and extend it to all non-policy-forming positions.

We pledge ourselves to enact legislation standardizing and simplifying quasi-judicial and administrative agencies to insure adequate notice and hearing, impartiality, adherence to the rules of evidence and full judicial review of all questions of law and fact.

Our greatest protection against totalitarian government is the American system of checks and balances. The constitutional distribution of legislative, executive and judicial functions is essential to the preservation of this system. We pledge ourselves to make it the basis of all our policies affecting the organization and operation of our republican form of government.

Third Term

To insure against the overthrow of our American system of government we favor an amendment to the Constitution providing that no person shall be President of the United States for more than two terms.

A Pledge of Good Faith

The acceptance of the nominations made by this convention carries with it, as a matter of private honor and public faith, an undertaking by each candidate to be true to the principles and program herein set forth.

We earnestly urge all patriotic men and women, regardless of former affiliations, to unite with us in the support of our declaration of principles to the end that "government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from this earth."

May Noted for Frequent Rains

Ithaca, N. Y., June 27—Less than the normal amount of sunshine and frequent rains marked the month of May in New York state, according to monthly reports just compiled by the weather bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture at Cornell.

Sunshine averaged nine per cent below normal. Light to heavy frosts a few times in the first half of the month caused only slight damage as vegetation was backward, the report says. Rainfall averaged 0.35 of an inch above normal, but its distribution was uneven. Regions that had more than the normal amount were the Atlantic coast region, the Hudson Valley, and western New York.

Weather for May was unfavorable for farm work, but quite favorable for the growth of most vegetation. Frequent rains kept the soil too wet to work so that by the end of the month many acres of spring grains remained to be seeded, and much corn ground was unplowed.

"Winter grains made excellent growth, and early sown spring grains made a good start, but oats in many places were seeded late. Alfalfa, meadows, and pastures made excellent growth. Corn and potato planting progressed slowly. Most truck crops and gardens were later than usual. Tree fruits blossomed late, and the weather was rather unfavorable for pollination and spraying. Warm dry weather was much needed at the close of the month."

New York Second In Lime Program

Ithaca, N. Y., June 27—In the entire country, New York state is exceeded only by Tennessee in the amount of lime furnished as grants-of-aid under the 1940 program of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, according to Earl A. Flansburgh, state executive officer.

A report, as of May 31, by the United States Department of Agriculture, shows the Empire state with a total of 238,816 tons of lime. Tennessee has a total of 240,264 tons. In third place is Virginia, with 217,379 tons.

These figures, of course, are not complete, Mr. Flansburgh says, because considerable tonnage was to have been applied after the report was made on May 31.

Boys and girls two and three years old chose virtually the same toys, but girls show greater interest in drawing, painting and clay modeling.

Republicans Begin Campaign to Convince Voters Party Has Best Program Possible for Peace and Preparedness

G. O. P. Declares Itself For True Americanism Against Foreign Wars

Convention Rules That 'Men Who Put America First' Must Be Elevated to High Places; Says New Deal Has Not Learned Lesson of Present

Philadelphia, June 27 (AP)—Abandoning earlier talk of making domestic issues paramount, the Republican Party started a campaign today to convince the voters that it had the best program to build adequate defenses and keep out of war.

In a platform speedily and noisily approved by the National Convention yesterday, the Republicans designated themselves as the party of "Americanism, Preparedness and Peace."

While they avoided any direct reference to the Democratic Party, they charged that the Roosevelt Administration had attempted to send Congress home "so that we might be eased into war by word or deed."

Convention Program

Philadelphia, June 27 (AP)—Today's program at the Republican national convention:

Call to order at 9 a. m., Eastern Standard Time.

Prayer.

Nominating and seconding for six more presidential aspirants.

Balloting on presidential nominations until one candidate gets 501 of the 1,000 votes.

Five Women Show Marks of Anxiety As Zero Hour Nears

By SIGRID ARNE

Philadelphia, June 27 (AP)—Behind the men who are fighting for top place in the Republican party there are five women whose faces are showing lines of anxiety.

They are taking the convention differently.

There is Martha Taft, the most seasoned campaigner. The wife of Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, she takes the hostess task. From 9 a. m. until 7 p. m. she's glad-handing in the luxurious Taft headquarters.

There is a maternal look about her rounded figure, her brown eyes. Take the case of the old gentleman she couldn't get rid of. She asked him in a confiding voice if he'd just shut the door. To make it easy, she pinned her own Taft button on him, and he left happy.

Drops Glad-Handing

Mrs. Taft dropped the glad-handing for last night's session when her husband's name was placed in nomination. That found her in the second row on the convention platform, tense, quiet, alert-counting the state banners that paraded in the Taft celebration.

Suddenly she lost her interest in the parade. Balloons were floating down from the sky-light, and some one had just whispered to her that her four sons were letting them down from narrow catwalks.

"If they just don't slip and fall through," Mrs. Taft exclaimed. Her eyes never left the ceiling until the demonstration was over.

Mrs. Willkie Frightened

Another tack is being taken by Mrs. Wendell Willkie. She's a slight, shy woman with gray hair. She is so frightened by the attention of crowds that she slips in a back door with a personal body-guard who wears a khaki uniform. She left the hall for a television appearance and missed the thing she had come to see—the prolonged demonstration for her husband.

Mrs. Frank Gannett, wife of the New York publisher, is taking it quietly. A cordial, slight brunette in a two-piece silk suit of black and white, she listened in her hotel suite to the speech nominating her husband.

The political veteran of the feminine ranks is using veteran tactics. She's Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms, daughter of Mark Hanna, onetime Republican leader. She's backing Thomas Dewey of New York. She is seeing delegates in personal interviews—about 30 a day. She hasn't bothered about attending convention sessions.

Candidate's Good Luck Kiss

Mrs. Robert A. Taft, wife of the Ohio senator who aspires to the Republican nomination for president at the Philadelphia convention, gives her husband a good luck kiss as he starts on a round of conferences. Taft was one of three or four candidates rated the best bets to get the nomination.

Around Convention Town

Philadelphia, June 27 (AP)—New political slogans are flowering in downtown hotel lobbies and in the Republican convention hall.

Here are some of the latest:

"If there's a Willkie, there's a way."

"No glamor, no sarong. Just a man who won't go wrong—Bob Taft."

"Dewey want Dewey? We do."

Joseph N. Pew, Jr., Pennsylvania oil executive and political leader, was standing on the fringe of a milling throng during the demonstration for Wendell Willkie at Convention Hall last night.

A man approached him and inquired, "who's it going to be?"

"It looks like General Grant to me," Pew wisecracked.

Thomas E. Dewey walked across Broad street from his hotel headquarters for a lengthy conference with former President Hoover.

As he threaded his way through the crowds, only two women recognized him and called a greeting.

George Allen, a Democrat who formerly was a Washington (D. C.) city commissioner, was discovered on the convention floor last night. Asked what he was doing there, he said:

"Spying on the enemy."

When Wendell Willkie dashed away from a conference with Herbert Hoover, a friend inquired how he was holding up under the strain of conferences lasting all day and far into the night.

"Anybody got any wildcats?" asked Willkie, looking about the elevator he was riding down to the street.

"I've got a 15-minute interval and I'll take 'em on."

First casualty of Convention Hall was an unidentified person who was banged on the head with a Washington state standard during a scuffle. The standard was smashed, and the man, his head badly cut, was helped away by police.

Jackle Fidgets Along Side Lines

State Chairman Can't Get on Convention Floor

Philadelphia, June 27 (AP)—Edwin F. Jackle, the New York Republican state chairman, can't get on the convention floor.

When last seen he was fretting on the side lines with only an honorary assistant sergeant at arms badge to admit him to the convention hall.

His difficulty in getting proper credentials goes back to the fight of the Thomas E. Dewey forces with Kenneth Simpson, the retiring national committeeman, in Albany.

During both the Dewey and Wendell L. Willkie demonstrations last night, Jackle was just a spectator. The door guards were just as tough with him as they were with all others who didn't have the proper credentials.

Everybody connected with Dewey headquarters, in fact, has had a difficult time of it in getting credentials, which are distributed in each state by the national committee.

Jackle isn't going back to Buffalo, but at times he has indicated he thinks he might as well be there so far as participating in convention activities is concerned.

Predicts Peace

Hoover Says Europe Will Stop Fighting by November

Philadelphia, June 27 (AP)—Visitors to former President Herbert Hoover reported today that he believes Europe will be at peace before the November election.

Mr. Hoover is confident that European peace would aid the Republican campaign, they said, regardless of who is nominated for president.

Mrs. Rainer Rides High and Yells 'We Want Dewey'

Wisconsin Marcher Winds Up Atop Shoulders of Enthusiastic Male, but There're Others Too

By EDDY GILMORE

Philadelphia, June 27 (AP)—The Republican national convention has set a new high in the use of women delegates for parade—so high, in fact, that one woman rode on a parader's shoulders.

It started with the Dewey demonstration last night.

In a burst of unbridled enthusiasm, two paraders grabbed the first lady marcher they saw. It happened to be petite and pretty Mrs. J. C. Rainer of Wisconsin.

Mrs. Rainer didn't seem to mind. While she yelled "We want Dewey!" the delegates hoisted her off the floor. Making a litter out of a colored lithograph of their candidate, they bore her about the convention hall.

Then came the Taft parade. In an effort to outdo the Dewey demonstration, a strapping Ohioan grabbed the first woman he saw, Miss Marian Wherry of Nebraska. He hoisted her into his arms and galloped as best he could across the crowded floor.

Next was the Willkie walkathon. While some state groups were scrapping over joining the parade, two delegates clutched a woman parader, who declined to give her name, and set off around the floor.

In three strides they had her on their shoulders. "My, my," laughed Henry P. Fletcher, former chairman of the Republican national committee.

"At this rate, if we had 20 candidates, someone would have to feature a lady on a flying trapeze."

The women must have something to do with the demonstration because, to put it mildly, they were lively.

Men paraded in blue parasols... A trio tripped down the aisle in Mikado hats... A lady waved handbag in the shape of a gray elephant... Supporters of Frank Gannett pounded down the corridors blowing kazoes.

With Empty Stomachs

When pandemonium was at its height, red, white and blue balloons, fell like gigantic blossoms from the lofty ceiling...

The delegates were marching with empty stomachs, too. Expecting a dinner-time recess—which didn't come—they had to raid the hot dog stands in the basement between demonstrations or go hungry.

The supply gave out at an early hour. "They ate over 10,000 hot dogs," said a concessionaire.

It was the first time in the memory of veteran convention-goers that traffic cops were used to direct the paraders. They had a squad of Philadelphia's finest armed with everything except stop-and-go signs.

Missouri Man Moves House Over Treetops

INDEPENDENCE, MO.—A young orchard stood where his house had to go, so Dave Crick lifted the 160-ton dwelling over the tree-tops.

Crick, a lumber dealer, sold his lot but wanted to move his house to a new site across the way. It couldn't be taken around because of street obstructions.

So the house was raised five feet and made its 500-foot journey over the orchard on timbers.

Candidates Hear Praise by Radio At Their Lodgings

Majority of Aspirants Stay Away From Hall to Get News at Headquarters; Praise for Halleck

Philadelphia, June 27 (AP)—If the Republican presidential candidates are blushing over their nominators' laudatory speeches, only their families and close friends know it.

Most of the aspirants are keeping aloof from the hurly-burly of the convention hall. The four whose names were offered last night—six more were on today's program—heard by radio why their partisans want them in the White House.

Wendell Willkie and Frank Gannett listened to last night's proceedings with groups of supporters in their headquarters.

Willkie, ringed by well-wishers, rested in an easy chair and puffed a long cigar. It went out, and he was too interested in the speeches to relight it. When the crowd cheered Rep. Charles Halleck's address placing him in nomination, Willkie grinned and said in an undertone:

"Charlie's doing a superb job."

Thrice during Halleck's speech, Willkie was called to the telephone for talks with Kansas and Texas delegates. Each time he climbed across visitors squatting on the floor.

Gannett, his wife and a group of friends saw a television broadcast at his headquarters. The Rochester (N. Y.) publisher, white-suited and cool, said he was "very well pleased with the way my candidacy was presented" by Rep. James Wadsworth of New York.

Thomas E. Dewey frequently interrupted by telephone calls, heard part of John Lord O'Brien's nominating speech over a blaring hotel loudspeaker. He retired early after pronouncing the address "magnificent."

Senator Robert A. Taft sat with a group of close friends in a private club. A crowd gathered at his headquarters while Editor Grove Patterson of the Toledo Blade placed the candidate's name before the convention.

Montana has shown a consistent gain in per capita wealth while the figure for the nation as a whole has fluctuated.

Belligerents' Wounds Probably Will Require Long Time for Healing

Mad Melee Ensues When Marvin Seizes State Banner; Bleakley Says It's Proper

Philadelphia, June 27 (AP)—The under-current of bitterness which has split the New York delegation to the Republican national convention into at least three belligerent groups was out in the open today, and it didn't seem likely even to the most optimistic peace-makers that the wounds would be healed soon.

Supporters of Frank E. Gannett and Thomas E. Dewey have been resenting openly the inroads of the Wendell L. Willkie adherents for several days, and last night they had an opportunity to show how they felt, in an outburst that occurred when Mayor Roland B. Marvin of Syracuse sought to carry the New York banner in the parade for Willkie.

First, Frank Brusch of the Bronx sought to stop him, then 70-year-old Peter Wynne tried it, but neither had much luck. Once, twice and then a third time the husky, six-foot Marvin marched around the convention floor carrying the state's banner, but on the third round a half dozen policemen, spectators and Dewey supporters went after the banner again.

Bleakley Intervenes

William F. Bleakley, chairman of the delegation, finally pushed through the crowd and persuaded the irate Dewey men that Marvin had a right to carry the banner if he so wished.

"Let Rollie have it," he said, "let him go ahead."

After Marvin returned to his seat, he had several bitter comments to make about the situation.

The outburst made it extremely unlikely that anything other than a last minute poll of the delegation would satisfy the group headed by Kenneth Simpson. That means no accurate tabulation of how the delegation will vote can be made until that time.

However, from a tabulation of information from various sources, some conflicting in their claims, it seems likely the delegation would vote approximately as follows: Dewey—between 58 and 65, Willkie—12 to 18, Gannett—9 to 15, Hoover—3, Vandenberg—1.

Simpson, the national committeeman, still has not made a statement on what he intends to do. Gannett has said flatly that "Ken will stay with me until I release him."

Working for Willkie

On the other hand, Simpson has been openly and actively working for Willkie, sitting in on strategy conferences, and exerting his influence with other state delegations in an effort to swing them to the utilities man.

That has made Gannett's supporters as critical of Simpson as the Dewey forces have been since the early June meeting in Albany when they were able to oust him as national committeeman.

J. Russell Sprague, the Dewey manager, was named to succeed Simpson.

Since that time the delegation as a whole has not held a meeting, but none really is necessary, for the chairman and other officers were selected at Albany. Bleakley, a close friend of Sprague and Edwin F. Jackle, was named chairman.

He has been in a different position in Philadelphia, because the Willkie and Gannett forces naturally are suspicious. Bleakley has tried hard to be fair to all factions, pointing out that in his position he represents the entire group, not the Dewey men alone.

His action last night in insisting that Marvin be permitted to carry the New York banner in the Willkie parade was typical of this attitude.

By VIRGINIA HANSON

YESTERDAY. The robbery of the chaplain's car and clothes is the second occurrence of the kind recently at Fort Michigan, Adam explains. The chaplain's plight arouses amusement on the post.

Chapter Three
Gerald Beaufort

THAT noon, in the mess hall, Colonel Pennant asked the junior medical officer how the chaplain was.

Captain Jones's slightly prominent eyes blinked; his Adam's apple made a couple of trips up and down.

"Sorry," he mumbled. "Didn't realize I was being addressed. The chaplain, sir? Worst case of poison oak I ever saw. We washed him—did everything we could. He seems unusually susceptible to it. Face, hands, swollen out of shape."

I'm sure we all tried to keep decently sober; I know I did. But in spite of all I could do little shuddery giggles began to escape me. Adam, pink faced, was avoiding my eye and feeding radishes rapidly into his mouth. Colonel Pennant made clucking sounds through lips that could not seem to keep from stretching horizontally. And Felicia, at the head of table, surveyed those lashes narrowly, for the unworthy thought did just occur to me that they might be artificial. And then, with a little bow, and not quite clapping his heels, he said:

"From Peele's, in London."

So it was really the voice that got me; and I make no apologies. Take a pair of Middle Western ears, tuned to the flattest accent on the globe, expose them to English well spoken by an Englishman—not the lah-de-dah of bored affectation or the vocal acrobatics of the Cockney, but the unpretentious, sterling article—

"Him, you're a new man," observed Colonel Pennant. "Used to be a big fellow, red face, regular John Bull."

Gerald Beaufort inclined his head.

"My uncle. Laid up with gout."

He drew down his mouth sadly.

"Poor old duffer."

"Too bad. Remember him very well. Used to buy Peele boots myself when I was young and foolish. Before I was a family man. Up to you, Adam, and Jeff. Him, little late for him, too. Too bad you didn't get here a month or two earlier, Beaufort. We're about to have a wedding on the post."

Blue Eyes And Gray

GERALD BEAUFORT'S eyes—those special gray, lashed, trimmed eyes—met mine across the table.

"I'm often a bridesmaid, never a bride," I said sadly.

the table, eyes round and mouth folded, was, I felt sure, composing one of her lines for later release.

Somewhere a telephone rang and Captain Jones, with a muttered apology and a haste that nearly upset the waiter with the soup, fled from the table. He did upset his water glass, transforming his mound of crumbs into a soggy, unwholesome pulp. He disappeared into the lounge, happily unconscious of the bitter glance Felicia Bridewell sent after him.

"As if that bread isn't crumbly enough, without pulverizing it," she said with distaste.

"What's the matter with him?" demanded Colonel Pennant. "His wife's in Chicago having a baby," she told him resignedly. "I always thought doctors took such matters very lightly, but it seems that's only when it's the other guy."

Lines that were not from laughter deepened in Colonel Pennant's face, and I remembered what Adam had told me, that the first Mrs. Pennant had died when Julia was born. I glanced at Felicia Bridewell and saw that she had just remembered, too.

Eyelashes, Too

I DON'T know why it is that at such moments talk dries up like spilled alcohol, leaving behind the same chill. You could feel the attempted celebration around the table. I had just opened my mouth to make some poisonous remark about the weather when I glanced toward the door and saw what at first I took to be a mirage. I left the remark unspoken and the mouth open, for as the vision advanced it turned into the handsomest young man ever seen anywhere, by anyone.

He was wearing something special in the way of civilian clothes, which in itself was enough to mark him as not of the army, for the civilian clothes of most officers are apt to be special in quite a different way. But the faultless tailoring was only the gliding on the lily. He had shoulders, he had length, he was built.

Then, as he paused beside the vacant chair across the table from me, I saw that he had eyelashes. While Felicia was informing us that he was Mr. Gerald Beaufort (pronounced Bewford) and introducing him formally around the their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Davis.

Mrs. Peter Davis and granddaughter, Roberta, spent one day this week with Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Davis.

It is understood that a jury trial will be demanded. Mrs. Hansen, who was arrested following an accident on the Plank Road, near the Kennedy turn, on June 16, when her car knocked down some guard rail posts and overturned, is being represented by Attorney Chris J. Flanagan.

It a Dog Could Pray

"O Lord, make my master faithful to his fellowmen, as I am to him. Grant that he may be devoted to Thee, his friends and his family as I am to him. May he be openfaced and undeceptive and as true to trust reposed in him as I am to his. Give him a face cheerful like unto my wagging tail. Fill him with patience like unto mine that awaits his footsteps uncomplainingly for hours. Fill him with my watchfulness, my courage and my readiness to sacrifice comfort or life. Keep him always young in heart and crowded with a spirit of play even as I, make him as good a man as I am a dog; make him worthy of me, his dog."

—Gertrude Day Howell

The old lady was looking for something to grumble about. She entered the butcher's shop with the light of battle in her eyes.

Old Lady—I believe you sell diseased meat here!

Butcher (blandly)—Worse.

Old Lady (astounded)—What do you mean worse?

Butcher (confiding in stage whisper)—The meat we serve is dead.

Do it Now!

How many times have we heard the admonition of the professional burr-placers....Do it Now!.... Maybe it is all right, as far as it goes; however, we heard about one young executive who got all "hipped-up" over the "Do it Now" psychology....It seems he had been reading one of the pep books....So, he dashed to his printer and had 100 posters struck off in big, boldface type...."Do it Now"....The next morning he came down to his office, an hour early, and posted them all over the place....The effect was electrical—almost tragic....The shipping clerk took one look and eloped with the president's daughter....The treasurer immediately "eloped" with the firm's cash....The purchasing agent pulled out a .45 and dropped the first salesman of the day in his tracks.... And Jim, the office boy....that was just what he had been waiting for....With a shout of glee, he pulled the stopper out of the red ink bottle and fired bottle and contents full-force into the whirling blades of the electric fan.... "Do it Now"....Hm-m, we wonder!

Junior—Mother Dear, is it true an apple a day keeps the doctor away?

Mother—That's what they say. Why?

Junior—I kept 13 doctors away today but now I'm afraid I am going to need one.

The family planned a picnic for the next day and Junior was asked by his mother to see what the paper predicted for the weather. After searching the paper he said: "Well, they haven't decided yet. It says here, 'Weather for Wednesday, Unsettled!'"

Jerry—I hear your son in college is doing a lot of extra work. Harry—Yes, he's a girl scout. Jerry—You mean a boy scout? Harry—No, he's always scouting for a girl.

Flushed with anger he burst into the shop of an electrical outfitting and repair company and snapped: "Man—Didn't I ask you guys yesterday to send a man out to my home to fix the front door bell that's been out of order? And didn't you solemnly promise to send somebody out there right away?"

Manager—But, we did send one. I'm certain of it. (Then he called to a workman in the back of the shop). Hey, Cokey, didn't you go out to this gentleman's house yesterday to attend to that job?

Cokey—Yes, sir! I went right out there all right, and I rang the doorbell for about ten minutes, but nobody answered. Guess there was nobody home.

Maine Far Down the List As Political Barometer

By WILLIAM NEEDHAM
AP Feature Service
The old saw, "as Maine goes, so goes the nation," is just an old saw. There are no less than 30 states topping Maine when it comes to correctly indicating the outcome of national elections. In the 10 presidential elections since 1900, there's nothing in the record pointing even remotely to Maine as a reliable political barometer. On the other hand, four states can point with pride to a 100 per cent score. Fifteen states have been right nine times and wrong once; 11 others were on the winning side eight times. Then comes Maine—along with Arizona, New Mexico and Pennsylvania—with a pretty sad record of three wrong and seven right. So far as elections go in this country, the states to watch are Kansas, North Dakota, Ohio and Wyoming. They haven't been wrong in all the 40 years. Here's how the others' political batting averages stack up: California, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Oregon, Utah, Washington and West Virginia—right nine times, wrong once. Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Nevada, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Wisconsin—8 and 2. Arizona, Maine, New Mexico, and Pennsylvania—7 and 3. Kentucky, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Vermont—6 and 4. Florida, North Carolina, Texas and Virginia—5 and 5.

Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina—4 and 6. South America, fourth largest of the continents, has an area of 7,570,000 square miles, about 14 per cent of the world's land surface.

Girl, 16, Has Attended

74 Schools in Ten Years
BOSTON.—Miss June Hanke, 16, whose address might be given as "North America," getting her education the hard way.

In the past 10 years she has attended 74 schools in every state and in Canada and Mexico. Miss Hanke is the daughter of a salesman who travels "like a gypsy" and settles temporarily wherever prospects look good.

Born in Detroit, she attended six kindergartens in her first year. Her freshman year at high school was spent in 16 schools. Despite her "hit and run" education, Miss Hanke is in the same grade as other girls her age.

She estimates that she has traveled 260,000 miles in 10 years.

The California division of forestry had to cope with 8,800 forest and brush fires in 1939.

Coffee Goes Scotch in Spice Cake!

Coffee in the cake and coffee in the frosting makes the Latin-American background for this new cake authentic enough, but the roll of the rhumba gives way to the highland fling and a blow at the bag-pipes once the frosting gets "scotched." The recipes for this Latin cake with the "Tam-O-Shanter" topping are given below:

Coffee Goes Caledonian In New Spice Cake
Everything's Latin but the frosting in the new "Coffee Spice Cake" with the "Coffee-Scotch" topping. There's real coffee flavor in the cake and the same thing in the frosting but the "scotching" process makes the castanets go "canny" and brings "brau bright moonlight nights" to the tropics.

Make coffee fresh for flavoring and be sure it's double-strength—that means two heaping tablespoons of coffee for each measuring cup of water. There's true coffee flavor and a bit of the heather in this new spicy cake.

Coffee Spice Cake
1½ cups brown sugar, firmly packed
¾ cup shortening
3 eggs, well beaten
2½ cups sifted cake flour
¼ teaspoon soda
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ginger
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
¼ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
¾ cup double-strength, freshly-made coffee, cooled
Pecan halves
Cream shortening, add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add molasses and well-beaten eggs. Sift flour with baking powder, soda, salt and spices; add alternately with coffee, a small amount at a time, beat after each addition until smooth. Bake in an oiled pan (12" x 8") in a moderate oven (350° F.) 40 minutes. Frost with Coffee Scotch Frosting and place pecan halves on top of frosting.

Coffee-Scotch Frosting
1 cup sugar
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
2/3 cup double-strength, freshly-made coffee
1 tablespoon light corn syrup
2 egg whites
Combine sugars, coffee and corn syrup in a sauce pan. Place over heat and stir until sugar is dissolved and mixture boils; continue cooking without stirring until a small amount dropped from the tip of a spoon spins a thread (240° F.). Beat egg whites stiff, pour the syrup slowly into the egg whites, beating constantly. Continue beating until the frosting holds its shape.

$50,000 Gift Made to American Red Cross

Norman H. Davis, chairman of the American Red Cross, announced today he had been handed in person a contribution of $50,000 from the Katherine Tuck Fund, designated for aid to French children. Mr. Davis also received an anonymous contribution of $2,000 for French relief.

The Red Cross War Relief Fund today totalled $15,326,313. Washington, D. C., was the first city of 500,000 or more population to pass its goal. The District of Columbia Red Cross Chapter announced contributions of $303,405 passing the goal of $300,000.

She Wasn't Cocksure
Arkansas City, Kans. (AP)—The head of an Arkansas City household, a game cock fancier, had an old bird that wasn't much of a fighter any more. He jokingly told his wife she could stew it if she thought she could make it tender. She accepted the challenge and was happy over the right good job of cooking she did—until her husband discovered she had killed the wrong bird. She'd got a prize rooster for which he had just paid $25.

Woman Overcome Here By Gas

Mrs. Ruth Lipschutz Is Found by Her Brother

Mrs. Ruth Lipschutz, 33, wife of Jacob H. Lipschutz, was found overcome by illuminating gas in the kitchen of her home, 95 Washington avenue, shortly after 6 o'clock Wednesday evening. She was found lying on the kitchen floor by her brother, Reuben Leventhal. After she had been revived she was rushed to the Benedictine Hospital in the Conner ambulance, where her condition this morning was reported as fair.

Officer Howard of the police department in his report to headquarters said that the fire department and Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation emergency crew had been called to the house. The unconscious woman was carried out on the porch where for more than half an hour she was worked over with the inhalator of the fire department in charge of Firemen Geary and Madajewski.

Dr. Nettie Weintraub also attended Mrs. Lipschutz and shortly after 7 o'clock she had been revived sufficiently to be placed in the ambulance and rushed to the hospital.

Kingston Becomes Disney Laboratory

Walt Disney, who more than any other man of modern times has mixed fantasy with realism, will be one of the cinematic moguls who will be watching this city's Disney Festival at the Kingston Theatre for three days beginning today.

For the first time anywhere in the world this all-Disney program is being presented in Kingston. No revival of Walt Disney classics would be complete without that never-to-be-forgotten "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," an RKO Radio release which is the feature attraction on the Festival program.

In addition to "Snow White" the theatre is also presenting as part of the Festival three classic Disney short features including "The Three Little Pigs," "Ferdinand the Bull," and "The Ugly Duckling." The associate feature will be "You Can't Fool Your Wife," with Lucille Ball and James Ellison.

Mr. Leventhal had gone to the house to investigate when no one replied to his telephone calls to the house.

Making Frankfurts

...not Miracles

The machine pictured above helps make frankfurts... not miracles! If the sausage-maker puts in cheap ingredients, he gets a cheap product. If he puts in quality ingredients he gets a quality product... but he's no miracle-man, either, and therefore cannot sell this quality product for the price of a cheap one!

Frankly, First Prize Sausage products, such as Frankfurts, Bolognas, Smoked Liver Sausage, and ready-to-serve cooked meats do cost a few cents more... but not one cent more than they ought to cost over ordinary products when you consider their fine quality! Only the purest freshest cuts of beef and pork go into their making; only the finest imported spices are used for seasoning... and the sausage kitchens in which they are made, are spotlessly clean! Keep those thoughts in mind next time you order sausage, don't gamble on cheap quality... ask for and insist upon First Prize... "better meats for better meals"... you'll soon find out it's wise to pay a fair price for sausage that's safe and wholesome and superb in flavor!

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Moonshine Monkeyshines
Hazard, Ky.—Deputy Marshal Andrew Combs believes in bringing 'em back alive—even if they're supposed to be dead.
He proved it by locating and arresting a man who had been reported drowned in this section's "flash flood" a year ago.
The "death" report followed the man's indictment on a moonshining charge.

Cagey Caterpillars
St. Louis—The wise, dinner-sound caterpillar here picks a tree shading an automobile to feed on.
The city forestry division, which responded to requests it spray worm-infested trees, had hundreds of protesters from motorists who disliked having their autos spotted by insecticide.
So foresters compromised and are treating only those trees that have no cars parked beneath.

Providence
Kansas City—Ralph A. Gemmet, 40, worked late in his enameling shop, then stretched out near a glazing oven to sleep.

Somehow the fires went out. James Day, his helper, arrived in the morning and found Gemmet sound asleep with the oven jets pouring out gas.
He called police, but by the time they arrived Gemmet was awake and feeling fine.

Chivalry
Santa Fe, N. M.—Chivalry is not dead in the old southwest.

Miss Concha Ortiz y Pino and Andy Nilson announced as candidates for the Republican nomination to the State House of Representatives.

Each was the first to sign the other's petition.

Couldn't Take It

Des Moines, Ia.—It's motor sputtering, an airplane made an emergency landing in a field not far from where old Joe, a stalwart work horse, was standing.
Old Joe swung his head slowly, looked fearfully at the noisy intruder—and fell dead.

Observers opined that the airplane—not his bitter mechanical rival, the tractor—was too much for Old Joe.

Toast En Masse

Lincoln, Neb.—Lincoln firemen vouch for this one: A tire came off a bakery truck, the rim sent sparks flying from the pavement, the sparks set fire to a leaking gas line and the fire converted a load of fresh goods into a load of toast.

Wasn't Miner All His Life
Just for Seventy Years

(P) Feature Service

Spokane, Wash.—Wesley J. Herring, sprightly 98-year-old president of the Elgin and Ogden Mining Company of Wardner, Idaho, denies he has always been a miner.

"At the last 70 years," he explained on one of his infrequent trips out of the silver-lead-zinc district of the Coeur d'Alenes where he operates.

"I expect I'll keep at it a couple of years more," he added, reflectively. "That will make me a hundred. I might retire then. I don't know, though, it depends on how I feel."

Herring drifted into the Coeur d'Alenes from New Mexico nearly half a century ago and stayed—first as a mine employee, then as a contract miner and finally as an independent operator with three claims in the famous dry belt on Big Creek where the famous Sunshine mine, richest silver producer in America, is located.

Herring sees little romance in being a factor in the development of the west. "It's mostly a lot of work," he surmises.

"But," he added, "it was a lot of fun drifting around New Mexico in the '80s and '90s with a couple of cayuses, a pair of six-shooters and a bowie knife."

"You know something," he switched the subject as the photographer snapped a picture. "That's the first picture I've had taken since one that was taken of me and another fellow in South Bend, Indiana, before we came West. I was 23 then."

"Hm, that would be 75 years ago, wouldn't it. Yes, sir, time does fly."

Eating Apple Pie Good
Way to Keep 'Doc' Away

Blacksburg, Va., (AP)—When you eat a slab of that delectable and popular American favorite, apple pie, you increase your consumption of Vitamin C—the anti-scurvy substance which is a good general conditioner.

Experiments at the Virginia Tech home economics department showed that apples cooked into pie retain more of their Vitamin C content than apples cooked any other way: 28 per cent for pie, as compared to 22 per cent for fried apples and only 16 and 13 per cent, respectively, for apple sauce and baked apples.

Although cooking by any method causes a loss of the greater part of the Vitamin C, Miss Mary J. Satorius found that this loss can be lowered by soaking the fruit in a two per cent salt water solution overnight before it is cooked. Apples contain less Vitamin C than many other fruits, but provide a good source when eaten in relatively large amounts. Miss Satorius found that apples lose a significant amount of Vitamin C at ordinary cold storage temperature of 40 degrees, but incur little or no loss if stored at 32 degrees.

President Signs Huge Relief Bill

More Than Billion Will Aid
Finance Relief Over
Eight-Month Period

Washington, June 27 (AP)—President Roosevelt signed into law today a $1,157,711,357 bill to finance relief for at least eight months beginning July 1.

The measure provided a basic $975,000,000 fund for the full 12 months of the fiscal year but contained a provision which would permit the President and the WPA to use it over an eight-month period if they believed it necessary.

Congress earmarked $25,000,000 of the total for national defense projects.

The bill contains new restrictions against aliens on relief rolls and retain the recent provision that at the end of 18 months, persons on relief must be dropped from the rolls.

It also contains a $50,000,000 fund to aid European war refugees and provides for machinery by which CCC enrollees may be trained in such noncombatant work as cooking, engineering and communications.

Fair and Chicken Dinner

The Mt. Marion Reformed Church will hold its annual fair the afternoon and evening of July 4th. At 4 o'clock there will be an address by Roger H. Loughran, attorney of Kingston. Music will be by the Dillenbeck Melody Makers of Binghamton. A fine display of fancy-work articles, hand-embroidered, crocheted, etc., will be on sale. Quilts (new and antique), aprons, rugs and many other articles. At 4:30 o'clock a chicken dinner will be served in the church hall. The public is cordially invited.

Held for Grand Jury

Frank Lucente, 22, arrested at Fonda and William Robertson, 18, of Amsterdam, arrested at Plattsburgh, by state police, were brought to the Ulster county jail last night. They are being held for action by the grand jury on charges of burglary in the third degree, following arraignment before Justice Wallace Shults of Woodstock.

Programs Condemned

Schenectady, N. Y., June 27 (AP)—The Atlantic district of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, has condemned the influence of many children's radio programs, "sensational" comic strip magazines and movie serials. The Rev. Howard L. Halter, Bayside, L. I., asserted the Lutheran Church should boycott children's programs found to be detrimental to the training of youth and ban their sponsors' products.

10 Names Placed Before Convention

enough to withstand the push of the hard-hitting Willkie. "Draft Hoover" buttons were seen in hotel lobbies for the first time, but the former president had no elaboration on his statement that he was not "seeking" public office.

His day of another string of conferences began with a visit from the Nevada delegation. Lawrence Richey, his secretary said that the delegations from North and South Carolina would be in next, and that others would follow.

Asserting they had not pledged their support to Hoover, members of the Nevada group nevertheless told reporters that all western delegations wanted his advice. Clarence Pugh of Reno, Nev., said he asked the former president "a blunt question" concerning Willkie, but would not detail what either he or Hoover had said.

Remaining downtown, Willkie conferred with his floor manager, Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota, and predicted the convention would nominate a presidential candidate tonight, adding: "I think I will be nominated."

Willkie told reporters that talks of a combination to stop him "amuse me."

Willkie contended he had been "agreeably surprised" by every check of his delegate strength. Among those who have talked with Hoover were Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, both of whom were placed in nomination last night, and Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan whose name was to be presented today.

Although called for 9 a. m. (EST), the convention, as usual, was late in starting. However, Chairman Joseph W. Martin said in advance of the opening that he hoped to run off all the remaining six nominating speeches in three hours, then recess a couple of hours before ordering the first ballot.

Circulating among delegates long before Martin pounded his gavel, were Stassen and R. B. Creager of Texas, Taft's floor manager.

Call to Order
Martin called the convention to order at 9:50 a. m. and Dr. Frank F. Bunker of the Christian Science committee on publication of the District of Columbia, led the assembly in the Lord's prayer.

First to be placed in nomination was Hanford MacNider of Iowa, one-time assistant secretary of war and former national commander of the American Legion.

Verne Marshall, Cedar Rapids, editor, urged MacNider's selection. Praising his war record, Marshall said:

"He is the answer to the earnest prayers of millions of Americans who see their country's danger. These millions will enlist in his service for the duration of this battle against totalitarianism, if he directs it."

"They are waiting for you to give them such a man, to rid them of parasites who have spread dissension, corruption and intolerable debt over the land."

When Marshall concluded, the Iowa delegation arose in front of the speakers' platform and sang "I'll Stay Where the Tail Corn Grows" while the convention organizer dis-harmonized with another air.

MacNider's nomination was seconded by former Governor Frank F. Merriam of California, Mrs. Fred P. Mann, Devil's Lake, N. D., and Sherman Grindstaff, Elizabeth, Tenn.

Between nominating speeches, Walter Johnson, the famous "Big Train" of baseball and Republican candidate for congress from Maryland, was introduced to the assemblage as the crowd applauded.

Nominating Senator H. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, Rep. Foster Stearns of that state told the delegates his candidate was a man of "determination, spunk and ability."

"The country at this moment is in desperate need of leadership," Stearns said. "We feel that this son of New England is the embodiment of those American virtues of which we are proudest, and which we feel can combat the flabbiness and cynicism which has been weakening our national stamina."

"It needs the experience of a man who has had to struggle for everything he goes for."

The demonstration for Bridges consisted of short-lived applause while the organizer played the "Maine Stein song." Although born in Maine.

Bridges' nomination was seconded by Worth Brown of California, John Lock Green of Virginia, Thomas J. Downs of Illinois and former Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire.

Huntziger Is Named
London, June 27 (AP)—A German radio broadcast heard here today said the French government had named General Charles Huntziger, who signed the armistice terms with Germany and Italy, as chairman of a French delegation of eight to the Italian-French armistice commission, the broadcast said.

Petain's Government Busy
London, June 27 (AP)—The French government of Marshal Petain is absorbed in returning France to peace conditions, particularly organizing supplies throughout the country. Havas, French news agency, reported in a delayed Bordeaux dispatch received here today. Members of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies met Tuesday to consider the refugee problem and return of soldiers to civilian life. By resolutions they declared "unfailing loyalty to Marshal Petain, head of the French government."

Several Michigan Students Are Told Not to Come Back

The university was "not concerned about frank discussions" but was "concerned with activities likely to prove detrimental either to other university students or to the public interest."

He said the "exact disposition" of the cases of refused re-entry was yet to be determined.

Dr. Ruthven's letters failed to state reasons for the refusal to readmit the students, and associates said he was unprepared to make a "formal statement" at this time. The university president was at his summer home in Frankfort, Mich.

The student union circulated petitions on the campus today demanding "reinstatement" of the seven and asserting that "war hysteria" had influenced the university's action.

The seven students, said the petitions, were refused readmission to the university because they "spoke out against war plans and war forces, against all violations of civil and academic liberties."

The petitions said that "Fascist regimentation of American youth" was threatened.

"We students will not be intimidated nor silenced," the petitions said. "We will continue to defend peace and democracy."

ported that on the night of June 20 alone British raiders dropped
371 bombs on German soil, killing 16 and injuring 41. At German-held Heller, in the Netherlands, 36 were reported killed and 22 wounded by 200 bombs the night of June 24.

Britain's raid the night of June 24-25 on German positions along the continental coast, reported yesterday, was scoffed by DNB as "ridiculous . . . insignificant."
The news agency said the raiders were driven off after wounding two Germans.

The British hinted the attack might presage repeated raids to harass Nazis at jumping-off points for direct attacks on England.

Tension increased in the Balkans and the Far East.

Rumanian airlines halted all commercial flights to cities in the border province of Bessarabia, where Russian and Rumanian planes were said to have clashed.
Reports from Cernauti said four Russian planes were fired upon,
and one was shot down.

Official Japanese sources said an envoy from Tokyo would seek to discuss Japan's position and aspirations in the Far East with Adolf Hitler. Japanese spokesmen already have indicated a protectorate might be declared over French Indo China and the Netherlands East Indies.

lation and the supplying of hand grenades to every village.

The slogan, "a hand grenade at every village pump," has been trumpeted by the Daily Express and the Evening Standard, newspapers of Lord Beaverbrook, minister for aircraft production.

A general officer in comment
snorted, "might as well say 'a French 75 for every child over five,'" and neutral military experts agreed. They asserted the civilians, however armed, would be more of a hindrance than a help in repelling well-armed German troops.

A force of 500,000 men, well trained and reasonably well equipped, will form Britain's first line of land defense against any German troops who might elude barriers of the royal navy and the royal air force.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 PINTS A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Kidneys remove excess acids and poisonous waste from your blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nightly, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Beat Heat With Bottled Beverages

humidity, relief comes in glass soft drinks to keep your head above the heat waves! There's dozens of kinds, from "sassy" apple juice, so drink them out of the bottle or do your own "soda jerking" with floats that are topping—tempting—and listed below:

Buy your bottled beverages and find your favorite floats in the following:

Ginger ale topped with vanilla, strawberry or raspberry ice cream.

Cola beverages topped with vanilla or chocolate ice cream or lemon and lime sherbet.

Root beer with vanilla or butter-pecan ice cream.

Orange, lemon or lime soda topped with vanilla or strawberry ice cream.

Raspberry, strawberry or cherry soda with lemon or orange sherbet.

illa, strawberry, chocolate or but-

Baby Patsy, Contortionist, and Irene Janakis Star at Yocan Revue

"Baby Patsy" Carr, child wonder contortionist, and Irene Janakis, dancer, were the stars of the Yocan Revue given Wednesday evening at the Broadway Theatre. Baby Patsy, a five-year-old, who can twist her little body into every kind of shape to the astonishment of all, was billed as leading the revue. She appeared in two acts, one alone and in one with her instructor.

The second act in which she appeared is the only one of its type in the profession, according to Mr. Yocan, and has had many requests for appearances. This act is wonderful for her age and the highlight of the revue.

Irene Janakis, who was also featured in many solo numbers, is a real dancer from the top of her head to the tips of her toes. She appeared in three ballet numbers and displayed remarkable technique for one of her age; her arms, control and excellent pointes making her dancing outstanding. Her ballet, especially the "Toe Pointes" number, was the best seen on any Kingston stage in a long while.

The revue, as all Yocan revues have been, was a splendid work of showmanship in costumes, scenery and lighting effects, and this year's was even better than that of last year. Mr. Yocan presented the new trend in lighting effects in the opening number, the glamour of fluorescence. In this number Sandra Camilla Dolson proved her excellent technique and good pirouettes in her toe solo.

One of the more popular numbers was the vocal and taps by Shirley and Mervin DeGraff. Shirley is a good "blues" singer and can act as well as sing and dance. She and her brother also presented several requests from last year's revue, the challenge stairs dance and stairs and taps.

The futuristic prelude was a well conceived modernistic dance and new to Kingston dance students, based on modern dance form.

Audrey Shultis was presented as a novelty in acrobatic control and was the best acrobatist of the revue, outside of the featured "Baby." Another scene which received great favor among the audience was the kiddies' tap scene and their "abandon of infancy." None of the children were given steps they were unable to do and none failed in their pose.

One of the most effective scenes was the Indian scene in which the use of lights played a large part. The entire program was one of strong appeal and was presented cleverly by each one appearing in the revue, which will show again this evening at 8:30 at the Broadway Theatre.

Get In On Vacation Fun; Be a Good Swimmer

Quickly Learn Popular Strokes. The girl who just paddles around in a life preserver, left high and dry when the gang goes off for a real swim.

If only the paddler realized that swimming, too, is just a matter of knowing how. And even the dashing American crawl isn't difficult if you learn it one movement at a time.

To practice the arm strokes stand waist-deep in water, leaning forward from the hips. Advance your right foot and stretch the left arm comfortably out ahead of you on top of the water, palm down.

Now pull arm down, past your left leg and out of the water behind you. Relax arm, turn palm to face water and carry the arm, elbow bent at first, back to first position.

With your left foot advanced practice using your right arm the same way. Then as you walk ahead use both arms together, pulling down with one while the other recovers across the top of the water.

For complete directions for the crawl, see our 32-page booklet. Also gives diagrams and directions for the side stroke, back stroke, back crawl, trudgen, trudgen crawl, breast stroke. Tells how to float, tread water, dive, do racing starts and turns. Includes safety tips.

TEA CUP SERVED WITHOUT SAUCER ONLY WHEN SPECIALLY DESIGNED SAUCER PLATE IS USED

Tea Refreshments Are so alnty, Saucer is Usually Adequate to Hold Them

The cup and saucer belong together inseparably. They are not like the knife and fork which are used together, or separately, as need may be. That is, the knife alone is put on the bread and butter plate. The fork alone is used more often than not. Think of answers in part the following letter: "A while ago you wrote that at a very large afternoon tea the sandwiches and cakes are very small and usually limited to thin varieties that can be eaten easily in the fingers. For this reason you suggested that the writer of that letter did not have to provide many napkins and that the tea plates were not necessary since people at such large parties were expected to put a small cake or sandwich at the side of the cup on the edge of the saucer. This brings up the question of why it wouldn't be better to serve the tea cup on a tea plate without the saucer, so there would be more space at the side for food. And yet, I believe you have also said that the tea cup must never be served without its saucer? If this is a fixed rule, then what about separating the knife and fork?"

To complete my answer, I can only add that saucer plates that have a cup-groove on one side into which the cup fits, would be proper. But a tea cup slithering around on an ordinary plate would neither look right nor feel secure. As a matter of fact, one easily can put one or two tea cakes or sandwiches at the side of a cup on its saucer. And it is always proper to help oneself again.

What the Bridesmaids Carry. Dear Mrs. Post: Have you any other suggestions for what the bridesmaids might carry instead of flowers?

Answer: Prayer books covered to harmonize with their dresses; bags of matching color, or parasols, although these last have little effect except at a garden wedding where they can be opened are all suitable. It is a little early for the suggestion that in Autumn they might carry big fur muffs, or large cuffs of flowers which fit together to look like a muff. The only things to avoid are the herd's crooks.

Dear Mrs. Post: When I come from our home office, my employer sometimes introduces them to me. Some of these men are just names to me until they come here. When time comes for me to leave I don't know where they should say more than "good-bye." Answer: If you never said more than "good morning," you would hardly say more than "good-bye." But if you have been in part in their discussion otherwise have talked with them at any length, it would be natural to say, "I hope you will pay an office visit again some time." "I hope your plan works out," something else that fits the situation better than either of the two. In other words, follow your impulse.

(Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad however, to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "Afternoon Tea." To send a three-cent stamp, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post, in care of the Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y.

Pretzel-Bending Sculpture Wins Prize for Steelworker

His friends used to tell him that a sculptor he was a good pretzel bender. But Louis Dlugosz of Lackawanna, N. Y., a steelworker, 24 years old, kept on making pretzel sculptures. Imagine the astonishment of one and all when an annual western New York art exhibition bought two of his entries, and third won $50 prize money.

Dlugosz technique, which results in creations that resemble store-window manikins wearing baseball players' masks, is credited by George B. Washburn, Albright Art gallery director, with "opening a new field in sculpture."

John Benson, director of sculpture at the Rhode Island school of design, said at the steelworker's entrance and declared "they're remarkable." The opinion was echoed by Mrs. Marie Stierner, New York art dealer, and Jere Abbott, Smith college art museum director, who purchased Dlugosz's entries.

Dlugosz's method is based on the principle that when baked, clay supports itself. First, the steelworker artist builds up the form of a head, bust. Then he rolls long strips of clay between his palms and places the strips on the form to create facial features. By means of these strips, which he terms "forces," Dlugosz depicts the agony of Christ on the cross, the worn expression of a laboring steelworker or the magnificent determination of a football halfback bucking the line.

"This method," the square-jawed, wiry sculptor says, "tells things more clearly than rounded sculpture."

He wants to continue his work because he believes "religious art has been neglected too long."

As for his fellow workers' wisecracks about pretzel bending, Dlugosz isn't disturbed. "When you work in a steel mill," he says, "a few words don't bother you."

Dlugosz's formal education ended with the sixth grade in public school.

Ancient Copper Smelter Unearthed Near Red Sea

Once more scientific archeologists are finding things buried under the sands of Palestine for which Biblical allusions are to be found. Excavations conducted near one of the heads of the Red sea, under the direction of Dr. Nelson Glueck of the American School of Oriental Research, Jerusalem, have resulted in uncovering part of the buried city of El-Amarna, King Solomon's naval base mentioned in the Book of Kings.

While at work the excavators wondered why the ancient city was situated where it was found instead of just a little farther east, where there would be not alone a better drinking water supply but relative freedom from winds and sandstorms that blow frequently and frequently, says the Scientific American. They uncovered ancient plants for smelting copper with the assistance of these same ancient natural drafts. The buildings were not ordinary buildings but were seen to be odd, completely novel to the archeologists. The walls were pierced with two rows of flues, and these were interconnected by a system of air channels inside the walls, opening into these flues. Around about were evidence of the ancient smelting of copper; fragments of copper ore, discoloration of the walls and numerous finished articles of copper.

The Bible also describes the copper of the adjacent region, and the modern archeologists verified this by locating sites where it had been excavated long ago, large slag heaps and slave quarters.

At Gettysburg, bloodiest battle of the Civil War, about 7,000 men were slain.

Broiled Steak Is Treat for Any Occasion

Broiled beef steak is one of the finest of meat dishes and a steak dinner is a treat for the family on any day, as well as one of the best of company meals.

Steaks for broiling usually are cut from the loin section of beef, although now and then we see the rib section cut into steaks. In most cases, however, the rib section is cut into larger pieces to be used as roasts.

Steaks vary in size and shape and in the amount of bone they contain. The loin and rib steaks are the tender ones. Therefore, in choosing a steak, one can select according to the size best suited for the purpose in mind.

Dinner Menu
Fruit Cocktail
Broiled Steak with Horseradish Sauce in Pimiento Cup
Parslief Potatoes Green Peas
Endive Salad with French Dressing
Parkerhouse Rolls Butter
Raspberry Ice Coffee

The larger steaks are the sirloin steaks; next smaller in size are porterhouse and the T-bone steaks. These latter two names have come to be used interchangeably. You can recognize them by the T-bone and the two muscles they contain, a larger one above and the tenderloin below the bone. The tenderloin is largest in porterhouse steaks. It gradually becomes smaller until it has almost disappeared in the part from which the club or Deimonico steaks are cut.

Use of Flank Portion

In porterhouse steaks, there is a good deposit of fat between the flank end and the tenderloin section. In serving the steak, it is better not to carve the flank end of the steak, if the number of servings do not make this necessary. If it is used a portion of this may be given with each serving, or it may be left for second helpings.

An excellent soup can be made of the bone and the flank end of this steak if this is left. Cut the meat into small pieces, add water and simmer it with vegetables such as carrots cut in thin, match-like slices, corn cut from the cob, diced turnips or celery and so on. Season with salt and pepper and spices.

Club Steaks Smaller

Club steaks have only the one large muscle with a small portion of tenderloin or none at all. Club steaks are small so that one steak makes a good individual serving or if cut thick will serve two.

For best results in broiling, steaks should be cut at least one inch thick. Broiling a steak, once considered a difficult task, has been simplified since the "low temperature" rule in meat cookery now includes broiling. The easier way proves to be the most successful.

No longer is it considered necessary to sear the steak at a high temperature. Instead, according to the new way, the steak is placed on a rack which is far enough from the source of heat so that it browns slowly and evenly and cooks half way through while one side is browning. It is seasoned and turned and the cooking finished on the second side. Then this side is seasoned and the steak is ready for the table. It should be served at once, sizzling hot.

Tempting Garnish

An attractive garnish may be used to set off the excellence of a steak. A distinctive accompaniment consists of a row of pimientos to cups, which can be obtained canned, filled with whipped cream to which horseradish sauce has been added. Boiled potatoes and green peas may accompany the steak.

To carve porterhouse steak, insert the fork to the left of the large muscle to hold the meat steady and with the point of the steak knife cut around the bone. Place this at one side of the platter so that it will not interfere with making the slices. Cut slices about one inch in width, beginning at the bone end. Each slice should include a portion of the large muscle and also of the tenderloin.

Indians' Smooth Keystone Pair Team Up On And Off The Field

By RAY BLOSSER
(A) Feature Service

Cleveland — Lou Boudreau and Ray Mack work, sleep and think together to give Cleveland the long-sought second base combination needed to make pennant contenders of the Indians.

They form one of the classiest double-play manufacturing combinations in the American league. Even better—but somewhat less expected—is the way they've been hitting.

In the first six weeks of the season they were jointly tied for the league leadership in two-baggers, with 13. Mack was clubbing away at a .363 average and Boudreau was hitting .320.

Boudreau, 22, is a handsome, soft-spoken University of Illinois graduate who started baseball life as a catcher. His father, once a third baseman in an Illinois independent league, suggested Lou would last longer at the hot corner, so he switched. Then the Indians made him into a shortstop because they had Ken Keltner at third.

Mickovsky's The Name

Mack, a year older, is the second baseman. Sport fans in his native Cleveland knew him better as Ray Mickovsky, battering fullback for the Case School of Applied Science. The Chicago Bears drafted him for National Professional Football League service but he preferred baseball and sports writers shortened his name.

Boudreau and Mack started playing professional baseball only two years ago, and came up to Cleveland last summer from Buffalo. The switch from the International to the American league threw both into a batting slump, because American league pitchers then were at their peak. But they found the range this year by improving with the flingers from the start of the season. "We've been roommates right along, which gives us plenty of chance to talk about double plays," Boudreau says. "We tell each other where we want the ball thrown, and when a certain play comes up in a game, we talk it over at night."

MACK AND BOUDREAU

Their Surprise Hitting Strength Is So Much Velvet

Work Well Together

"We started throwing hard at one another—that improves the chance of double plays—and we've always kept it up. At third, I didn't have to figure out the batters so much, so I have a lot to learn yet. But we hope to keep it up."

Mack had no intention of playing professional football because he always liked baseball better. A mechanical engineering graduate, he says "I gave myself three years to make the grade and decided if I didn't by that time, I probably would drop baseball."

He and Boudreau, due to their natural talents and flashy teamwork, did much better than that. They arrived after only a year and a half of professional ball. Mack was at Fargo-Moorhead, N. Dak., and Boudreau at Cedar Rapids, Ia., before they first teamed together at Buffalo last year.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, June 27 (AP)—The Yanks didn't win a series in the west. Ain't it awful...Max Baer: "If Tony Galento pulls any rough stuff, I'll walk out in the middle of the fight." Well, we wouldn't be surprised...Can't confirm er, but the up-state air is filled with rumors the N. E. A. will call it quits at the next convention...Larry MacPhail is feuding with the radio again because the Dodge game was cut off Tuesday night in favor of a phonograph record of the Hoover speech...George Keogan, Notre Dame's smart basketball coach, has been added to the faculty of the eastern coaching school at Manhattan Beach next month.

Henry Armstrong sang one of his own compositions over the air the other night, and both were O. K....Miss Adelaide Erwin of Rochester is authoring a biography of Rabbit Maraville which ought to make hilarious reading...Larry French calls Carl Hubbell the greatest pitcher he ever saw—a swell tribute from one fine twirler to another...Petey Sarron, former featherweight champ, shot himself a hole-in-one down at Birmingham the other day...Joe McCarthy doesn't often give his blessing to players who marry in mid-season, but they say Buddy Roser will hear those bells pealing at Buffalo, July 9.

Baer Is in Stride, Already Talking Of Future Victory

Training Not Noteworthy but Comes Into His Own by Talking How He'll Triumph

Pompton Lakes, N. Y., June 27 (AP)—Maxie Baer's curls ordinarily are combed back off his broad brow, but just the same he's still the little girl who had one lock hanging right in the middle of her forehead.

If he's good against Tony Galento in the Jersey City hall park Tuesday night, he will be very, very good. If he isn't—the ladies' weekly sewing circle might just as well take over.

Max is still a major mystery, like boarding house hash. Right now, although his training word up here isn't anything to write home about, he's talking a great fight. But talk has been about as expensive as old newspapers to the playboy pouncer in the past. Still, he insists he has a distinct dislike for the "barrel that walks like a man" and will belt him out early in their 15-round fight.

"I'm going to work on that fat watermelon right quick," he said today. "I'm going to cut him up for five, or six, rounds. Then, when he can't see any more, I'll flatten him. This is one fight I'm really looking forward to, and I'm going to enjoy stiffening him. I don't like him now."

As for any roughhouse stuff that Two-Ton may try, Maxie tells you he's "a pretty good rasser" himself.

Rees to Praetice

After their two nocturnal games were called due to bad weather this week, Carl Husta's Kingston Rees will hold a practice session this evening at the stadium at 6 o'clock. The Rees will play out of town Sunday against Schenectady's General Electric.

Freeman Softies Win

While Jimmy Little hurled good ball his Freeman teammates slammed the offerings of four Richfield Oil Company flingers at Forsyth Park Tuesday evening for a grand total of 46 runs to win 46 to 5. The Oilmen had previously beaten The Freeman team, 18-14.

City Softball League Results

Last night at Block Park Hercules won its sixth straight game by defeating J.Y.A., 7 to 5. Buddy DuBois was the new hurler obtained by the winners and he proceeded to pitch good ball, despite a few shaky innings. Bill Israel hurled for the losers and was touched for six hits, one less than J.Y.A. collected off the offerings of DuBois.

Thiber Tomshaw and Pete Murdoch smashed out homers for the Powdermen. "Red" Newell picked up two for three. Klein made a triple for the losers.

Rizzo Is Coming To Life for Phils Since His Switch

Ex-Buc Is Batting High Following His Joining Phils; Helped Trim Bucs Yesterday

Philadelphia, June 27 (AP)—Johnny Rizzo—the outfielder Pittsburgh and Cincinnati didn't want—is whaling the daylights out of the ball for the Phillies.

The slugging Italian, traded to the Phils by Cincinnati for Morrie Aronovich on June 15, joined the Phils on June 18. Since then he has clouted 17 hits in 33 times at bat for a lousy .515 average, nearly double his season mark of .261 at the time he left the Reds.

His latest feat came in a doubleheader against Pittsburgh yesterday when he belted six hits—including a homer, triple and double—in seven trips to the plate.

The day's work obviously gave Rizzo considerable satisfaction but for Manager Frankie Frisch of the Pirates, it was a double headache. Frisch, who traded Rizzo to Cincinnati for Vince DiMaggio early this year, saw his former leftfielder drive in all of the Phils' four runs in the first game while Cy Blanton, another ex-Pirate, set the Pittsburghers down with seven safeties and a pair of markers. DiMaggio, however, pounded out a home run apiece in the opener and nightcap—which the Pirates won 11 to 6—to bring his total for the season to eight, the same number Rizzo has clouted for the Reds and Phils.

Greenberg Wins In College Tennis Match Yesterday

Young Southpaw Student Achieves Recognition by Victory; McNeill Has Close Call

Haverford, Pa., June 27 (AP)—A 19-year-old southpaw, Seymour Greenberg, is the surprise of the national intercollegiate tennis championships here.

Overlooked in the seedings, Greenberg bowled over the seventh ranked William Gillespie in the third round yesterday as the original field of 67 was narrowed to 16 in a single day.

Greenberg, a student at Northwestern University and holder of the national public parks championship, eliminated Gillespie in straight sets, 6-1, 6-1. Gillespie, representing Miami University, won the third game of each set, breaking through Greenberg's service on one occasion, but except for these instances, the left-hander's stroking kept him on the defensive.

Greenberg's performance overshadowed victories turned in by top-seeded Don McNeill, of Kenyon; Joe Hunt, of Navy; and Frank Guernsey, the defending champion from Rice Institute.

McNeill was hard pressed to down Ed Kilgus, of Pennsylvania,

The London market continued to rise and prices again were bid down to further new lows.

The London Financial Times industrial average at 61.1 and the rail average at 31.9. On August 31, the session before the outbreak of war, the industrial average was at 96.6 and the rail average at 31.9.

Conditions were easier although some issues turned firmer toward close. Foreign issues mostly lower and there was considerable profit-taking in the Italian group. Rome 6 1/2 losing more than three points. German governments were little changed.

announced programs indicate the railroads are going ahead with equipment buying on a large scale. The Pennsylvania R. R. directors approved an expenditure of $10,000,000 for equipment, including locomotives and passenger cars. This in addition to a $17,000,000 equipment and property program announced last year. Norfolk & Western will provide at once with an $8,000,000 program and other roads are moving to meet possible big traffic increases.

Electric Power & Light report three months ended April 20 was sharp increase over 1939. Income for the period was $68,432, equal after preferred dividends to 45 cents a common share and comparing with net of $1,571,187, or four cents a common share.

Net operating income of Pennsylvania R. R. for May of $6,900,000, contrasts with $3,552,667 in May 1939.

Glenn L. Martin Co. has air orders totaling $110,000,000, which $25,000,000 represents orders from the U. S. Government. Production of bombing planes for the British is being accelerated. Great Britain has taken over French government contracts.

The long rise in the price of any steel scrap ended yesterday when sales were made at $20.50 a ton, a reduction of fifty cents. It is said that 250,000 tons of scrap metal originally headed for the U. S. is tied up in Atlantic seaboard ports by transportation difficulties.

Electric output for the week ended June 22 was lower than in preceding week, but 9.8 per cent above the same week in 1939.

Acknowledges Blame

Takes View Factories Now Doing Such Work Should Consider Great Britain

Washington, June 27 (AP)—Secretary Morgenthau upheld today the government's insistence that any American manufacturer who makes Rolls-Royce airplane engines for his own country should make them as well for the British.

"I just can't imagine the British being shut out from their own engines," said the treasury secretary, who himself obtained from the British American rights for manufacture of the engine.

"As a matter of fairness and policy," Morgenthau told his press conference, the administration had to cancel negotiations with Henry Ford for a 9,000 joint British-American engine order, who Ford refused to make motors for any country other than the United States.

There were these other defense developments: The United States laid down the keel of its first 45,000-ton superdreadnaught.

The RFC began a search for vast stores of strategically important rubber and tin.

Mr. Roosevelt scheduled a conference with the national defense commission. It will follow one at which he will discuss with cabinet members the completion of plans to draw the western hemisphere into tighter economic unity.

Morgenthau approved a congressional limitation of seven to eight per cent profit on warship and airplane construction, terming the limitation a challenge to the "patriotism" of American manufacturers.

The start of work on the battleship Iowa at the Brooklyn Navy Yard and the opening of negotiations by the reconstruction of aircraft engines for essential war materials typified the divergent activity of the preparedness program.

South America continued to figure prominently in the developments. The Export-Import Bank granted a $20,000,000 trade loan to Argentina yesterday just as intensive Nazi economic activity was reported there. The navy, with three warships in the South Atlantic, ordered three more to the South Pacific, and government plans proceeded for financing Latin-American development of crude rubber production.

The national defense commission meanwhile pursued discussions with Packard Motor Company for mass production of aircraft engines on a joint U. S.-British order. The talks followed the collapse Tuesday of negotiations with Henry Ford, who refused any but exclusively American defense contracts.

The 45,000-ton Iowa—largest battleship ever put on the ways for the navy—marked the beginning of a construction program which will add four huge capital ships to the fleet. Another is to be built at Brooklyn, and two more at Philadelphia. It will be between three and four years before the 45,000-tonners are completed, however.

Outstanding bills and obligations are paid twice a year in China. Settlement days fall on the lunar New Year, in January or February, and again six months later.

Springer, N. M., June 27 (AP) — A Springer couple encountered a fat bear in the mountains and gave chase in their car. A wheel pinned one of Bruin's paws. They called "Wild Bill" Letcher, deputy game warden, who decided to kill the animal as a menace to stock. He hauled out his six-gun.

The first shot made the bear blink. The second blew out a tire. The third hit the radiator and another punctured the gas tank. Letcher decided to get his rifle but the motorist's hearts softened. They moved the auto off Bruin's paw and he fled into the timber.

Kennedy Advises Americans to Quit Britain for Home

London, June 27 (AP)—United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy urged all Americans today "who do not have any urgent reason for remaining here longer," to sail for home on the U. S. liner Washington from Galway July 4. He said the Washington, which is scheduled to sail from New York tomorrow "is very likely to be the last American vessel to come over until after the war."

The text of Kennedy's statement: "My advice to Americans who do not have any urgent reason for remaining here longer is to go home. The government cannot continue to dispatch vessels and their crews into belligerent waters to accommodate those who persist in remaining in danger area. I wish to warn everyone that the Washington is very likely to be the last American vessel to come over until after the war."

"Anybody who wants to go back to America and wants to make sure of getting there, would be well advised to take whatever accommodations are available. 'The government cannot be blamed for assuming that those who do not leave now are prepared to stay for the duration of the war, come what may, and to stay at their own risk.'" and invited the public to send in postcards to the city clerk.

Alderman Robertson called attention at that time to the public hearing the committee had held on the subject at which time only one person expressed himself in favor of the proposed ordinance, while petitions were filed with the committee by the uptown merchants, which were signed by approximately 95 per cent of those doing business in the affected area. All were opposed to one-way traffic.

At the public hearing Attorney Andrew J. Cook and Attorney Chris J. Flanagan appeared for interested property owners and merchants.

It was stated on their behalf that while the one-way traffic regulations were in force that business had decreased 25 per cent.

Just what action the traffic committee will take will not be known until the report is submitted to the council meeting next Tuesday evening.

Vassar Group Visits Local Bakery

Freeman Photo

Salzmann's Bakery on Abeel street was host last week to the dietitian and a group of students of Vassar College who made the trip to Kingston to inspect a new type of air-conditioned traveling tray oven that has been installed in the bakery. The oven shown above, with Baker A. Pittard removing the bread and helper Neal Donovan putting them on a rack, bakes 336 loaves of bread every 30 minutes, and is equipped with a new type of air conditioning that continually circulates the heat, giving a lighter crust and an even bake to every loaf. This new addition to the Salzmann Bakery is not confined to the baking of bread, but is used for cakes and pastries of all kinds. It has an oven control that takes effect rapidly in either a cooling or heating operation.

C. A. Dunn Found Dead in Elks' Club

Believe He Was Seized With Heart Attack in His Room at Club

Charles A. Dunn, 79, who for about a year has been making his home in the Elks Club on Fair street, was found dead of a heart attack shortly after 7 o'clock this morning by Philip Weiskopf, who saw a light in the room and investigated.

Dr. Chester B. Van Gaasbeek, who had been called, pronounced death as due to a heart attack. He said Dunn had evidently been dead from six to seven hours when found.

If Dunn had lived until October he would have celebrated his 80th birthday.

Mr. Weiskopf was busy at work at the Elks Club shortly after 7 o'clock this morning when he noticed a light in the room occupied by Dunn and opened the door. He found Mr. Dunn stretched out on the floor dead. Startled, Weiskopf jumped back and the door, which has a spring lock, swung closed and locked. Firemen Matthews and Diamond from the Wiltwyck fire station were called and forced the door.

Officer Elbert Soper of the police department in his report stated that it was believed that

Mr. Dunn was sitting in a chair in his room when seized with the heart attack and slid off the chair onto the floor. Mr. Dunn was fully clothed when found.

The police department notified Coroner Lasher of Saugerties who turned the body over to A. Carr & Son of Pearl street.

Body of Girl, 15, Found in Woods

St. Louis Student Found After Long Search

St. Louis, June 27 (AP)—The body of Ruth Gornek, 15-year-old high school girl, was found today near a path in a wooded area of suburban University City. She had been strangled with the skirt of her play suit, her skull apparently was fractured and there were other bruises on her body.

An all-night search had been made for the attractive, slight built daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Gornek when she failed to return home from a swimming pool in a University City park yesterday afternoon.

Three large stones, with blood on them, were found near the body. There was evidence of a struggle between the girl and her assailant.
